Youth Training Camp Boys Put Up Stiff Battle

Fires continued to consume valuable timber stands in various sections of this province on Tuesday as dry weather prevailed with no relief in prospect.

"Nothing has happened overnight to alter the situation," said one official of the provincial forestry branch. "There has been no rain reported and nothing in the way of relief from the situation."

Fires continue to roar in the district to the west of Olds, in the Athabasca-Brazeau forest reserve, in the Whitecourt district, near Lesser Slave Lake, Wabascaw and in the Athabasca river valley.

Large crews are in action on all fire fronts.

Wind was reported less strong on Tuesday, which assisted the fire-fighters, but lack of moisture still constitutes the greatest menace.

LASHED BY WINDS

Lashed by strong winds all day Monday, two fires 30 and 50 miles south of Rocky Mountain House spread rapidly.

A third fire was reported late Monday from the Meadows ranger cabin, 40 miles southwest. It was believed started by lightning and Oscar Raynor, forest ranger, has a crew out fighting this one. He has had a youth training camp at Meadows cabin for the past month and the 25 boys are now fire fighting, aided by miners from Alexo and Saunders. This fire is not in commercial timber yet.

Fighters and supplies are going in by pack horse 15 miles.

A fire 30 miles south in the Rocinus district, close to the best stand of commercial timber in the district, is burning on a two-mile front, but Forestry Supervisor F. G. Edger hopes to have it under control by tonight unless the wind again rises. He sent 20 more men out from town this morning to Rocinus.

Monday's work held the fire back from the settlement, but farmers have had to leave their harvesting to fight fire and their wives are running the binders and stooking.

The third fire that came up from Bow River reserve, was worse yesterday in the strong wind, which carried burning branches to start new fires. Over 50 men are fighting flames there.

Very little wind is in evidence today, but there is still no sign of rain.

FRANCE CALLS RESERVISTS TO COLORS TODAY

Action Taken Even Before Cabinet Has Chance to Decide

PARIS, Aug. 22.—France stood on the alert today with reservists called to the colors even before the cabinet met to sign emergency military decrees.

The announcement of the German-Russian negotiations for a non-aggression pact, officially viewed as "nothing new" at the foreign office, none the less led France to go a step farther in military preparedness.

Under Premier Daladier's firm rule by strict decree no estimate was available of the number of men added to a normal standing army of more than 700,000.

The war ministry was silent.

Private estimates from usually well informed sources said, however, between 300,000 and 600,000 reservists had already been called to the colors.

In connection with the Berlin-Moscow development, an official spokesman said Russia may have found it suited her plans to help Germany shock the British and French, thereby making both Paris and London willing to grant any Russian demands in exchange for conclusion of the tri-power pact.

"A non-aggression pact as such may mean little or nothing," he added. "Russia already has one with Poland. As for the new pact we must wait to see what it provides—if it is concluded."

Official sources cited the old treaty of Rapallo, signed between Russia and Germany in April, 1922, to support their argument negotiations for a new non-aggression treaty were "nothing new."

They said the Rapallo treaty was still in effect and was, moreover, signed by Hitler in a protocol in May, 1933.

UNUSUAL FLEET MOVES REPORTED IN NORTH SEA

OSLO, Aug. 22.—Observers reported unusual activity Monday of British and German fleets in the North and Baltic seas, the area they patrolled in the Great War.

The British ships have been seen in the section where they laid a submarine barrier during the war. A British plane carrier and planes have been carefully watching Ulsire Island, north of Stavanger on the southeast coast of Norway, where there is an important lighthouse and radio station.

German armed freighters and torpedo boats were observed cruising below Lengeland and Lolland islands in the Falster group near Denmark. They appeared to be making tests for mine fields in the Baltic.

GERMANY MAY SEEK REGAIN ALL OF POLAND

Hitler May Not Be Content With Only "War Lost" Danzig

By LOUIS LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Aug. 22.— The momentous "hand shaking" between Germany and Russia was seen by Germans today as having the effect of accelerating Nazi determination to regain not only "war lost" Danzig but all the rest of present-day Poland which once was Austrian or German.

From the German viewpoint the outlook shapes up this way:

Poland is now "surrounded" by German troops from the eastern border of Slovakia via Bohemia and Moravia up to the Baltic.

Germany moreover has non-aggression pacts with all other neighbors of Poland, meaning they

RETIRED FARMER INSTANTLY KILLED BY MIXED TRAIN

MANVILLE, Aug. 22. — While crossing the C. N. R. station yards at Manville Saturday at 2 p.m. John McIlroy, 84, retired farmer, was killed instantly when struck by the westbound mixed train. His body was dragged about 30 feet by the engine.

It is believed that Mr. McIlroy, who was troubled with his hearing did not hear the train approaching.

Dr. B. E. Knapp of Manville, who arrived on the scene shortly following the accident, announced that death was instantaneous.

Dr. Adamson of Innisfree is acting as coroner and an inquest will be held Friday at 10 a.m. at Manville. Constable Harrison, R. C. M. P., is investigating.

New Accord Spells End Of Parleys

MOSCOW, Aug. 22.—Diplomatic quarters were thunderstruck today by reports from Berlin that Russia had agreed to conclude a non-aggression pact with Germany and it was predicted it spelled an end to the 10-day old military staff talks here with Great Britain and France.

No announcement of the decision had been made here at an early hour today.

The Soviet radio did not carry the news.

BIG BRITISH RAIL STRIKE NOW CALLED

THIRD CRICKET TEST CONTEST ENDS IN DRAW

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Final of the three-game test-cricket series between England and West Indies ended in a draw today. The Englishmen posted an eight-wicket victory in the opening test and the second resulted in a stalemate.

At close of play today England had scored 366 runs for loss of three wickets. The tea-interval score was 322 for two.

HONG KONG, Aug. 22.—British authorities, as a precautionary measure, broadcast by radio tonight an appeal for voluntary registration of all British-born women and children in the crown colony. Russia-Germany Planning New Non-Aggression Pact Upon Heels of Trade Accord

By ALVIN STEINKOPF
Associated Press Foreign Staff

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Germany upset the structure of the tense middle-European situation by announcing shortly before midnight last night that she will conclude a non-aggression pact with Russia.

Germany's announcement of its diplomatic "putsch" seemed to mean the months-old efforts of Great Britain and France to induce Russia to enter a front to back up Poland, Rumania and other smaller European countries against aggression had failed.

It appeared the current military discussions in Moscow of British, French and Russian officers could not lead to constructive results for the western powers.

The brief official announcement of the decision of Russia and Germany to conclude a non-aggression pact stated that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop would arrive in Moscow Wednesday to conclude negotiations. If there is to be a conflict as a result of the Polish-German dispute over Danzig and the Polish corridor, it now appears certain that Russia will be neutral.

The position of Poland, which had been counting on the effectiveness of the Democratic peace front, appeared to have been weakened greatly.

German soldiers were massing on the Polish frontier, and now it seemed that if they are called upon to march eastward into Poland they will not have to worry about the possibility of encountering Russian troops marching westward.

It was presumed the vitally important decision would be signed within the course of a day or two, after which Germany would not

BRITAIN CALLS PARLIAMENT TO SIT THURSDAY

Bill Will Be Sought to Give Government Special Powers

LONDON, Aug. 22. — The British government tonight called an emergency meeting of parliament for Thursday to take special defence measures to deal with the critical European situation.

The decision was announced after the cabinet had concluded a meeting lasting nearly four hours.

Parliament will be asked to rush through a bill to give the government special powers to take any necessary measures without delay.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES

These measures, it was said, would include the calling up of additional forces, in the navy, army and air force.

Britain's action came only a few hours after France had called up an undetermined number of reserves.

The British Government also announced that arrangements were being made to ensure the export from Britain "essential materials." There was no immediate explanation of this, but it was interpreted as meaning materials for Poland in event of war.

These measures were announced

BRITAIN TO CALL MANY RESERVISTS

PARIS, Aug. 22. — A Havas dispatch from London said it was learned on the highest authority that the British cabinet decided at today's meeting "to call to the colors immediately an undisclosed number of reservists of all branches of the defence service.

The Havas report added that "in accordance with Prime Minister Chamberlain's recommendations, the cabinet also decided to call parliament into session Thursday."

Ottawa Startled By Hitler's Coup: Call Cabinet Meet

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Aug. 22.—The Russo-Germanic coup startled Ottawa as much as it did the other empire capitals. The prime minister at Kingsmere was informed by British of developments and is in constant touch with Downing Street.

A cabinet meeting is called for tomorrow but there was some expectation that it might be called today, save that the government wants to avoid any appearance of alarm.

Some of the ministers will be away tomorrow at the funerals of Senator O'Connor and Hon. H. G. Carrell.

There is discussion as to whether parliament should be called, but it is very unlikely that the house will be summoned, unless and until the situation becomes really grave and war is a probability rather than a possibility.

The governor general in council has the power to put the country on a war footing without calling parliament and without the actual existance of war.

Such war footing provides that every man in Canada capable of bearing arms may be conscripted for the defence of Canada and that all industry, transportation or other economic factor can be switched into the national service.

NINE LIBERALS NOW IN FIELD FOR ELECTION

Nine Liberal candidates have already been placed in the field for the provincial election and about double that number will likely be nominated before the election. J. H. Tremblay, Liberal M.L.A. for Grouard, said Tuesday.

Mr. Tremblay said Gerald O'Connor, K.C., M.L.A.; Adi. Hugh MacDonald, Edward C. Fisher, are the three Edmonton Liberal nominees on the Citizens' slate.

In addition, Le Perras, St. Albert; J. M. Christie, Clover Bar; Mr. Crowthers, Beaver River; Dr. J. Yak, Vegreville, and Dr. O'Brien, Grande Prairie, and Mr. Tremblay, Grouard.

Grouard have also been nominated by straight Liberal conventions.

WHEAT YIELDS MUCH BETTER THAN EXPECTED

OTTAWA, Aug. 22—Early threshing returns, indicate crop yields moderately better than generally expected, the dominion bureau of statistics said today in its 13th of 15 weekly telegraphic reports covering crop conditions in the prairie provinces.

Harvest is well under way in the south and Peace River districts of Alberta and about 50 per cent of the combing has been done in the south with widely varying yields reported. Grades are disappointing but yields are somewhat better than expected. In the central part of the province cutting will be in progress this week.

Coarse grain prospects range from poor to fair. Some light frosts have been reported which will lower grades, particularly of late crops. In the Peace River area conditions have remained favorable with no damage from frost or rust to date. Little precipitation was received last week and average temperatures were high but a few cool days relieved the crop situation in many districts.

LONDON, Aug. 22 — A special meeting of the National Council of Labor tonight was convoked for tomorrow to consider the international situation. The council is composed of representatives of the Labor party, the Parliamentary Labor party and the Trades Union Congress.

TOWN WORKERS AT VEGREVILLE GET INCREASES

35 Male and 9 Female Employees Benefit From Board Order

Increase in salaries of 35 male employees, totalling $576 a month and increases in salaries to nine female employees totalling $79.50 a month resulted from a recent inspection of the town of Vegreville by inspectors of the Board of Industrial Relations, according to Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

Vegreville has not been inspected since the fall of 1937 and according to officials "continual complaints were being received from employed persons."

In connection with the increases in Vegreville officials said, "This means that in one small locality, if employment is continued for the next six months at our statutory minimum wage as now arranged, there will be an increase in purchasing power on the part of 44 persons of $4,456. It is reasonable to believe that the entire community will benefit from the spending of this sum."

GIRL CONQUERS PEAK AT JASPER IN SKI CLIMB

JASPER, Alta., Aug. 22. — Gertrude Wepsala, Dominion ski champion, made Canadian mountaineering history Sunday as the first woman to conquer the difficult ski ascent to the peak of Mount Athabaska. The Vancouver star and two professional skiers, Peter Valja of Switzerland and Fred Bishop of Edmonton, reached the summit of the 11,452 foot snowcap seven hours after starting out from the lower tongue of Athabaska glacier.

Only previous ski ascent of Mount Athabaska was recorded in June by Benno Rybizka, former instructor at the famous Arlberg ski school in Austria. Miss Wepsala's ascent was made under snow conditions of mid-summer up the centre glacier of the north face of the mountain, high above the vast snowfields where she has been training for the 1940 international competitions. Numerous large crevices several hundred feet deep had to be avoided and one snow bridge forty feet long was crossed.

The descent over frozen crust of late afternoon was accomplished without a fall in the short time of slightly over the hour.

German-Russian Friendship Dates Back To Days of Bismark — Hitler Succumbs

By the Canadian Press

BY DECIDING to negotiate for a non-aggression pact, Germany and Russia have undertaken to restore close relations which existed after the Great War until Hitler came to power in 1933.

By moving to enter a friendly agreement with the Soviet, Hitler is believed by some observers to have given weight to the advice of many German military leaders who have advocated co-operation between Germany and Russia, which they look upon as Germany's natural reservoir for raw materials.

German-Russian friendship, as it affected more remote history, dates back to Bismarck, the "Iron Chancellor" of Germany, who favored Russia as a possible ally in European politics in order that Germany never might have to fight a war on two fronts.

He was planning to renew an old "re-insurance" pact with Czarist Russia when Emperor Wilhelm II dropped him as chancellor.

TURNS TO FRANCE

Russia then turned to France and Britain. Germany found herself opposed east and west during the Great War.

Following the Great War, relations became close.

In very recent years, however, their relations have puzzled many observers. Officially and publicly the bitterest of peace-time enemies, the two countries nevertheless maintained prosperous mutual trade relations until 1935.

One of the first acts undertaken by Hitler after he became German Chancellor was to renew Germany's non-aggression agreement with Russia. The original document was signed April 24, 1926 when Germany, with a sizable Communist representation in her government, was on friendly terms with Russia. Hitler's renewal took place May 5, 1933.

The treaty and its renewal were each to endure seven years. The letter of the pact survived growing suspicion and tension between the two nations when their ideological differences became sharply divergent.

Posthumous Honors To Be Bestowed On Great Land Geographer

LAKE WINDERMERE, B. C., Aug. 22.—Sixty-five years after his death, David Thompson, the greatest land geographer who ever lived, but who died in obscure poverty to lie in a nameless grave in Montreal, will be honored here September 4.

Citizens of Lake Windermere and district, among them Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, former British Columbia Lieutenant Governor and Canadian minister at Tokyo, will, on Labor Day, unveil the David Thompson memorial at this mountainous outpost, scene of some of the great Northwest Company explorers' notable voyagings.

The memorial, a simple cairn of rock to which residents of the Windermere Valley have contributed, will be unveiled after an address by Judge F. W. Howey of New Westminster, B. C., the noted historian and director of the National Sites and Monuments Board.

FOR UNVEILING

In charge of arrangements for the unveiling on behalf of the Dominion government is Capt. E. N. Russell, superintendent of Yoho and Kootenay national parks, Field, B. C., and the dedication will include the reading of Bliss Carman's poem "David Thompson" and the singing of the ballad "David Thompson," composed by John Murray Gibbon, noted librettist of Montreal.

Through their own efforts and on their own initiative, residents of this beautiful mountain valley have seen to it that such a great Canadian explorer as David Thompson will have a permanent shrine in the memory of oncoming generations.

EXTRAORDINARY MAN

In a brochure by J. B. Tyrrell, F.R.C.S., published as an appreciation of Thompson in connection with the forthcoming unveiling, Mr. Tyrrell points out that Thompson, with extraordinary accuracy, placed on the map the main routes of natural travel in one million, two hundred thousand square miles on Canada and five hundred thousand square miles of the United States. He surveyed the head waters of the Mississippi and discovered a new route to Lake Athabasca.

He opened the first trade between what is now Canada and the territory beyond the Great Divide, fixed the locations of outstanding geographical points over this vast area with the sureness of an expert astronomer, though he had to learn how to figure the stars when he was a boy wintering at Cumberland-House on the Saskatchewan river.

SURVEYED COLUMBIA

So far as is known, he is the only man who has ever surveyed the Columbia from source to mouth, 1,150 miles. His locations are as accurate as others which have been made with the most modern instruments and the most recent almanacs the government departments can buy.

Despite all this the opening of the memorial museum and hall at Lake Windermere has been the first public recognition of the debt civilization owes him for though the Thompson river is called after him, a few years ago not one geographical student in a thousand knew anything about him, says Mr. Tyrrell.

The hall stands on the site where Thompson camped in 1807 as he explored the Columbia. Beside it stands the monument which loving hands will unveil to his illustrious memory on Labor Day.

NEW FLOTILLA LEADER TO BE ASSINIBOINE

Canadian Destroyer to Be Named in Honor of Prairies

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Aug. 22. — The new destroyer flotilla leader, acquired from the admiralty for the Royal Canadian navy, will be named the Assiniboine, and will be stationed at Esquimalt to lead the Pacific half flotilla.

The Assiniboine is the first ship to be named in honor of the prairies. All Canadian destroyers are being named after rivers.

Two ships have been named for B.C. rivers, the Skeena and the Fraser. Two have been named for Quebec rivers, the Saguenay and St. Laurent. One for Ontario, the Ottawa and one for the Maritimes, the Restigouche.

All the names with the exception of the Fraser and St. Laurent, are of Indian origin, the B.C. river being Scottish and the Quebec of French derivation.

The Maritimes sought to have the ship named after a Nova Scotia river (the Restigouche being New Brunswick) but Hon. Ian MacKenzie substituted the Assiniboine to give the west an interest in the navy as there are numerous young men from the prairies in the service.

The Assiniboine will arrive from England to join the winter manoeuvres off the West Indies and will then proceed through the Panama to Esquimalt to take the lead. She is a faster and somewhat larger destroyer than the existing six, with more speed and power.

It is expected later that a similar flotilla leader will be acquired later for the Atlantic.

SCOUTS AIDING GREAT BRITAIN OFFICER SAYS

Boys Trained to Develop Friendship, States Sir P. Everett

So important is the work being done by the Boy Scout Association in England in aiding in preparing the country for home defence, that government officials have repeatedly said that Scoutmasters are doing as much for their country as if they belonged to one of the various branches of the service.

This statement was made by Sir Percy Everett, deputy commissioner of Imperial headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association, who arrived in the city on a Mackenzie Air Service plane piloted by Leigh Brintnell, shortly before noon Tuesday.

"But that does not mean that we are a military organization or that we are training the Scouts to be soldiers in England or in any other country," declared Sir Percy. "Scout training is entirely directed towards peace and the development of friendship between the youth of different countries."

ENCOURAGES LEADERS

Sir Percy, who is the personal representative of Lord Baden-Powell world Chief Scout, has been touring Canada giving messages of encouragement to Scout leaders throughout the Dominion and gathering new ideas and gaining inspiration to take back with him to England.

Sir Percy is a tall man, with an erect carriage and brisk, dynamic manner and action that makes him look many years younger than 69. He is the only surviving member of the staff of Scoutmaster Baden-Powell's historic experimental Scout camp on Brownsea Island in 1907.

FULL PROGRAM

A full program has been arranged for Sir Percy's short stay in Edmonton. He lunched with a few of the leading Edmonton Scout officials and then was taken for a drive about the city.

Later in the afternoon he is scheduled to meet "Sixers" of the Cub packs in the city at the Memorial Hall and this will be followed by a banquet in his honor at the Macdonald hotel, which will be attended by His Honor Lt.-Governor J. C. Bowen and Mrs. Bowen, Mayor John W. Fry, leading Scout officials in the city and members of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

Sir Percy will leave for Saskatoon via C.N.R. late Tuesday evening.

of inspection were in excess of 48 hours per week, for females and 54 hours a week for males, were reduced in the cases of 236 employees, the average reduction being 17 hours per month.

"When it is realized that this increase in leisure hours has been acquired for this large number of employees in one community without loss of employment, it can be seen that our inspectors can be very beneficial to a community and conditions similar to those obtaining in Vegreville would be welcomed in other towns of similar size and we mean to send our inspectors to them," said the minister.

TRADES COUNCIL ASKS FEDERAL AID FOR BEAUTIFYING

Trades and Labor Council, meeting Monday night in the Labor hall, urged the use of the dominion government works program by the city for the building of needed city beautification projects.

The council endorsed an additional motion that the public school board apply for a similar grant under the provisions of the act to build a west-end high school. Third motion endorsed urged the dominion government providing no grants to municipalities using relief labor for maintenance work.

Letters will be sent from the council to the dominion government protesting the 25 cent per car admittance fee to Elk Island park. Ald. S. Parsons opposed this motion.

Letters from trades unions requesting the trades council to approach the provincial government "in regard to the firing of employees when they reach 19 and are eligible for the minimum wage," was endorsed by the delegates.

A. Farmilo, secretary, was chosen unanimously as the delegate from the council to the convention of the Trades Congress of Canada, in London, Ont., Sept. 2.

NO DECISION ON PIPELINES UNTIL OCTOBER

Whether pipe lines will be constructed from the Turner Valley oil field to Fort William or Vancouver, is not likely to be decided until October at the earliest, according to officials of the provincial lands and mnes department.

Investigation into the practicability of constructing such lines is now under way under the direction of Dr. Charles Camsell, deputy minister of mines and resources, Ottawa. Dr. G. S. Hume, chief of the geological survey division of the mines department and other officials are engaged in the survey work.

When this work is finished, reports will be submitted to the Dominion government and to British agents who have been interested in developing the pipe line project.

Som discussion of this development is reported to have taken place at Calgary last week when Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, as well as members of the Alberta Gas Conservation Board conferred with Dr. Hume and others.

Banff National Park Hits New Attendance Record During July

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Aug. 22—Banff, oldest of Canada's national parks, has this year reached the zenith of its attendance. During the month of July a total of 14,067 automobiles carrying 51,770 passengers entered the park, according to the department of mines and resources.

This compares with 11,927 cars and 42,786 passengers in the corresponding month of last year. In addition to motor traffic there was a substantial movement of rail passengers which included visitors from all over the world.

Banff enjoys wide fame as a vacation area. Outstanding among its attractions are the world-famous resorts of Banff and Lake Louise.

Other noted beauty spots in the park include Lake Minnewanka, Moraine Lake, Bow Lake, Mount Assiniboine region, and the vast Columbia Icefield—150 square miles in extent—a remnant of the Ice Age, which will shortly be accessible by the motor highway from Lake Louise.

Swimming, bathing, tennis, golf, boating, canoeing, walking tours, mountain climbing, motoring and riding are the most popular pastime for the many visitors.

Banff is a sanctuary where bird and animal life thrive under the protection afforded them. It is not unusual for visitors to meet bands of big horn sheep or black bear on the mountain highways, or to play golf under the curious gaze of a herd of lordly elk, or to sight the usually timid deer within the park townsite.

British House

in a government communique which declared that Britain remains "of the opinion that there is nothing in the difficulties which have arisen between Germany and Poland which would justify use of force involving a European war with all its tragic consequences."

The statement said Great Britain was ready to create conditions of confidence but added "if in spite of all their efforts others insist on the use of force, they (His Majesty's government) are prepared and determined to resist it to the utmost."

Referring to the projected non-aggression pact between Germany and Soviet Russia the statement said the British government "had no hesitation in deciding that such an event would in no way affect their obligations to Poland which they have repeatedly stated in public and which they are determined to fulfil."

When Berlin and Moscow Startled the world last night by announcement of the proposed non-aggression pact the first reaction in London was a decided gloom and pessimism. Since then there has been a change.

One of the reasons for this change of opinion was the fact that Russia has non-aggression pacts with several countries, with Italy, France and Poland, for instance. In each of them is a clause stipulating that if the other party resorts to aggression against a third country the Soviets are left free to act and the pact is voided.

FREE TO HELP POLAND

If the German-Russian agreement is concluded on these lines it would leave Russia free to help Poland if Germany moved against the Poles.

In any event Whitehall sees no reason to suppose that staff consultations in Moscow between Britain and France and the Soviets will be abandoned as a result of the German agreement. On the contrary, they may be accelerated with a three-power pact emerging just that much quicker.

Official circles declined to comment on the developments pending more exact information. At present only the press communiques issued in Berlin and Moscow have been received.

DISASTROUS EFFECT

It is impossible to assess the effect of the agreement on eastern Europe, particularly Poland, until its terms are revealed. In the event of a German attack on Poland, Russian neutrality could have a disastrous effect, but if the pact leaves Russia free in the face of German aggression it would leave the situation almost where it was.

One thing seems sure: Britain and France have given Poland pledges of full military support and if this assistance is sought by the Poles it will be given irrespective of Russia's stand. In other words, any agreement between Germany and Russia will not limit the Anglo-French pledges to Poland and other countries in the peace bloc.

The initial reaction in London and Paris to last night's startling disclosures at Berlin and Moscow was stunned surprise.

The first reaction in the small countries of southeastern Europe was one of alarm. Officials in Hungary, Slovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia said the pact might mark a turning point in world history.

One official in the Balkans said "Poland might just as well lay down her arms" immediately, adding that "at least she can escape physical annihilation in that manner." Complete shifts in Europe's opposing camps were seen as a likelihood.

NUTCRACKER TACTICS

Some persons foresaw Poland squeezed into subjugation by nutcracker tactics extending to the small eastern European countries. Officials of Slovakia predicted their little nation would get generous slices of Poland for their friendship to Germany.

The Daily Herald (Labor), urging that the cabinet now recall parliament from vacation, called Russia's action "a bigger betrayal of peace and of European freedom even than Munich."

The Evening Standard (Independent) suggested editorially that "Moscow is merely seeking to play off Berlin against London and Paris" and called on Britain to continue "to build our strength in alliance with the French and in friendship with the United States."

The Evening Standard said "this change marks the final step towards a policy of Soviet isolation."

LIGHTEN BURDEN

"Russia's isolationism, if that be the true meaning of this announcement, will lighten Britain's burden in the far east by splitting Japan from the axis while increasing the weight of our commitments to the Poles," it added.

The Star (Liberal) also commented on the possibility that the projected non-aggression pact was a device to bring Britain and France "into line." The Star added:

APPARENT DUPLICITY

"The delays and wobblings of our government must be held partly responsible for the new situation. Yet such an excuse cannot palliate the apparent duplicity of the secret negotiations with Berlin which must have been taking place side by side with the peace front talks in Moscow."

The Evening News (Independent) called the pact "a great diplomatic defeat for Great Britain," and said "it appears to have been arranged without the foreign office having the slightest inkling of what was going on."

Poland Also Surprised: Maintains Reserved Mind

WARSAW, Aug. 22. — Official Poland, surprised by Berlin's announcement of negotiations for a non-aggression pact with Soviet Russia, maintained a reserved attitude today, but it was responsibly stated Germany's latest move "has brought absolutely no change in Polish policy."

Official comment was withheld until full details of the reported pact are available.

Regarding the problem of Danzig, however, Polish circles emphasized Poland's present policy has "never involved any question of seeking or expecting" assistance of Russia.

In both Poland and foreign quarters speculation ranged from the suggestion the German-Soviet pact is "no more than a new card in the game," to a belief it may bring some fundamental changes in the European situation.

Cabinet Makes Survey And Then Adjourns

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The cabinet surveyed the international situation for nearly four hours today and adjourned without announcing any decision.

An emergency meeting of parliament had been forecast in informed political quarters as France as well as British considered the new situation created by the projected German-Russian non-aggression pact.

The British ministers were asked to stand by for a possible call upon adjournment, but no further meeting was arranged.

There was no immediate indication as to what action the cabinet took, but informed quarters said Prime Minister Chamberlain might issue a statement later tonight.

Daladier Gives Into Private Military Parley

PARIS, Aug. 22—Premier Edouard Daladier left an emergency cabinet meeting late today for a long private conference with General Maurice Gamelin, commander-in-chief of all France's armed forces.

There was no immediate indication whether the premier was discussing with the general the call of even more troops to the colors than those summoned before the cabinet met. Usually well informed private sources estimated between 300,000 and 600,000 had been called up.

PENDING PACT MAY NOT HALT MILITARY PLAN

British - French Moscow Missions Seeking Knowledge

MOSCOW, Aug. 22—Unofficial Soviet sources said today the impending Soviet Russian-German non-aggression pact would not exclude negotiation of a mutual assistance agreement with Britain and France.

British and French quarters, however, were gloomy over the announcement that Berlin and Moscow were coming to an understanding.

It was uncertain whether the British-French staff talks with Soviet military leaders would be continued today. The British and French missions sought instructions from their governments.

A terse communique on front pages of morning newspapers told Russians, who have been brought up to think of Germany as a potential enemy, that Adolf Hitler was sending his foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, here to conclude a "no war" pact.

Not a single newspaper, however, commented on the announcement—one of the most significant in the Soviet Union's history.

British and French quarters held hopes the long delayed mutual assistance pact with Moscow might still be forged.

In these circles, the belief was expressed that the Soviet government was using the German negotiations to pry concesions from London and Paris.

U.S. Seems Certain Now of Better Than Average Harvest is Report

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The United States appeared certain today of a better than average harvest. Men who earn a living worrying about such things reported that "in the country as a whole, food for man and feed for livestock are promised in abundance."

Although production of wheat, cotton, corn and other major crops will fall below the bumper levels of 1937 and 1938, most of the agricultural experts here contend this is a good thing.

CASH BOUNTIES

The government has had to resort to cash bounties to promote the sale of some of these commodities in other parts of the world; and agriculture secretary Henry Wallace argues that huge surpluses are as hard on the farmer and the country as drought and under-production.

From the consumer viewpoint, conditions appear favorable. Large supplies of wheat and other bread grains, fruits, meats and dairy products are on hand or in prospect, and prices are in some instances the lowest in five years.

INCOME IS UP

From the farmer's standpoint, conditions also might cause thanksgiving when viewed along with world situations. Although prices are lower than farmers desire, it is estimated that cash farm income for the first half of 1939 amounted to $3,381,000,000 or about $50,000,000 more than for the same period in 1938. Inareased government benefit payments accounted chiefly for this rise.

IMPROVED DEMAND

Government economists say they expect some improvement in the demand for farm products this fall and winter along with a gradual business upturn.

Administration farm leaders are happiest about the wheat situation. The crop is estimated at 731,000,000 bushels, about 200,000,000 bushels less than last year and slightly under the recent 10-year average.

Floods Ravage Great Chinese City Tientsin: Heavy Toll of Life

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

TIENTSIN, Aug. 22.—Flood ravaged this great North China city today, taking a heavy toll of life and causing property damage running into millions of dollars.

Angry waters of the swollen Hai river rushed through Tientsin. An area extending some 30 miles north and south of the city was flooded. It was the greatest flood disaster in Tientsin's history. But many feared the worst was yet to come.

There had been hopes that because rain ceased in the immediate area of Tientsin the flood crest would be reached today. However, the waters continued to rise slowly, fed by continuing rains in the interior watershed which the Hai drains.

Refugees by the thousands streamed into Tientsin from the submerged areas. There was intense suffering among the city's 1,500,000 residents.

The Japanese concession was under water—in some places 10 to 15 feet deep. Houses collapsed. Through the night, the sky was red from fires which burned huge sections of buildings to the flood line. Fires also raged in the native areas.

The British and French concessions were submerged to depths up to 15 feet. The Italian concession to the northwest apparently suffered less than surrounding areas. The central station of the Peiping Mukden Railway was submerged partially.

The United States community was as waterlogged as any. American marines whose barracks are on the southern edge of the British concession lost a two-day battle to hold back the waters with sandbags and retreated to upper floors, taking their livestock with them. The American consulate also took up emergency quarters in the marine compound.

70 Swine Club Members Attend Big Field Day

Seventy members of Alberta swine clubs and their parents from the area west of educ and Wetaskiwin attended a recent field day at the University of Alberta farm, organized by P. Wyllie, district agriculturist at Thorsby.

Members of the Liberty Swine club at Conjuring Creek, the Prosperity Swine club, Falun, the Poplar Swine club of Sunnybrook and the Pioneer Swine club of St. Francis attended.

Addresses were given by Prof. J. P. Sackville and Dr. R. D. Sinclair of the animal husbandry department of the U. of A. and by C. A. Lyndon, provincial livestock commissioner, and R. M. Putnam, director of the agricultural extension service, agriculture department.

Judging competitions were held and instruction was provided on various matters pertaining to livestock. Club members enjoyed a tour of the U. of A. grounds and also visited the main buildings. A picnic lunch was served.

militia camps than in any year since the war.

DEFENCES ADVANCED

The coast defences are advanced to a more forward stage than known previously.

The big guns have been delivered from Britain and most have been mounted at coast defence points.

The tanks ordered some time ago are being shipped from England. The morale of the defence forces is at a peak. The R. C. A. F. has a waiting list of 25,000 recruits.

For the first time since the war militia unit officers report more men offering for camp than can be taken. The navy also has a waiting list of young Canadians eager to enlist.

UNDER-AGE YOUNSTERS

Both R. C. A. F. and navy have under-age youngsters applying to ensure enlistment when they come of age.

Hon. Air-Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., chairman of the air advisory committee, and his four colleagues, have been making personal checks on the efficiency and preparedness of the air force.

Capt. B. L. Johnson, D.S.O., and his four fellow officers have been doing the same thing with the navy. Lt. Col. A. M. Thomas and four retired army officers have been scrutinizing the permanent and non-permanent forces.

All have reported to the defence council their satisfaction with the progress made. The defence council has been going over the plans which have been drawn up and revised and improved over the succeeding years.

This council includes the minister, the deputy minister, the chief of the general staff, the naval staff and the senior air officer, the adjutant general, the quartermaster general of ordinance and the judge advocate general.

National defence is exceedingly reticent, seeking to avoid an alarmist attitude, but is taking necessary measures just in case. It is understood that the Prime Minister has been informed of the outsome of last week's defence meeting.

DELAY IN MUNITIONS

The chief difficulty has been the delay in munitions ordered in Great Britain, where the factories are working at pressure on the British orders which are more urgent than Canada's. The big guns, tanks, and similar munitions cannot be made in Canada at present and had to be brought over.

A hundred thousand veterans of the Great War are ready to jump in on any service the government gives them to do. The Canadian Legion, the Canadian Corps and the other veteran organizations have given the government their assurances and thousands of the veterans have written offering their services. Canada's primary difficulty in 1914 was to find instructors to train the thousands of young men who offered. There will be no such difficulty in another emergency. There are 30,000 or 40,000 former officers and men who are physically unfit for active service, but who would take on instructional work.

Poland Sought

will not attack Germany in case she decides to move into Poland. (However, Russian non-aggression pacts usually provide for abrogation in the event of aggression against a third power.)

HOPE SHATTERED

The hope of Great Britain and France that Russia might join them in the event of an attack on Poland by Germany is held here to have been shattered.

Britain and France may regret that their military mission told the Russians what they have to offer in a military way toward an alliance, it was suggested here.

The pressure upon Rumania to come within the Rome-Berlin axis orbit will probably be increased greatly now in the knowledge that Russia still looks longingly at Bessarabia.

TEMPORARILY ENDED

Japan's flirting with a military alliance with Germany and Italy is at least temporarily ended.

Adolf Hitler definitely said in his Reichstag speech of April 28 that his one-time offer to content himself with Danzig and a German-controlled "corridor through the corridor" to East Prussia died when Poland rejected it.

It therefore is highly unlikely in the German view that Hitler now will be inclined to accept Poland's readiness—if such develops as the result of last night's developments—to agree to these earlier terms.

RAISING THE ANTE

Hitler has an inexorable way of "raising the ante." His whole conduct of the past justifies this assertion.

There is no doubt the average German now has been led to believe the Poles will not fight. He sees his Fuehrer again in the role of miracle worker who augments the Reich without shedding blood.

The man in the street in Germany today believes neither Britain nor France now will go to Poland's assistance.

He professes to feel there is no other course for the western powers except to stand by inactive. He does not believe the British or French can bring effective aid to Poland, even if they want to, in less than five days.

Within 48 hours, at the latest, many Germans conjecture Poland could be brought to her knees.

MERELY SMILES

No matter how much the foreigner living in Berlin may insist that the situation today is different from what it was last September, that the Poles are determined to fight and the British and French prepared to go to their assistance, the average German merely smiles.

Just what the fate of the Polish part of the Ukraine would be in the event of Germany's marching into Poland is difficult to predict at this time.

One would have to know more about the terms of the impending German-Russian pact.

It is not inconceivable, however, that Germany would be content to take the rich agricultural lands of the former German section and arrange so favorable a trade agreement with both Poland (such as remains) and Soviet Russia that she also would obtain access to the raw materials of the Ukraine.

Another possibility is that Germany may sponsor the claims of the Polish-Ukrainian Irridentists, whose headquarters are in Berlin, for an "independent" buffer state like Slovakia.

Another state besides Poland that has cause to worry about the immediate future is Rumania. Only last Saturday Konrad Henlein's publication "Die Zeit" told Rumania she was playing with fire by accepting the British guarantee of her independence.

CUT RUMANIA OFF

It was apparent from the article and from other information that Germany, with the aid of Hungary, would, in the event of a conflict, try to cut Rumania off from Poland so that British supplies might not reach Poland via Constanza.

Every student of history remembers how chagrined Russia has been at the loss of Bessarabia. While not much has been said of late about it, the re-acquisition of this fertile strip of European soil has ever been a Russian dream.

VOICED SURPRISE

This correspondent was present when important Japanese and German editors discussed the situation this morning. When the Japanese voiced their surprise on ideological grounds, the Germans said:

"One must differentiate strictly between ideologies and state treaties. One can fight another people on ideological grounds and yet have the best of state relations with them."

"Even an alliance," one German added, "between states of opposite ideology is not impossible."

Europe Astounded As Germany, Russia Complete New Pact

have to fear anything from the east so far as military opposition is concerned.

Whether this confidence would speed up or retard the culmination of the Polish problem remained a question. Certainly, observers said, Germany will not take any final action in the direction of Poland for a day or two at least.

But once signatures are affixed to the Russian non-aggression pact Germany will have one less reason to fear involvement with Poland, it was felt.

WHERE'S JAPAN?

What effect will the new agreement have on Germany? Promises to Japan under the terms of the anti-comintern pact—to which Italy also is a signatory—could not be known immediately. But German sources here stated you may be sure that single has been taken care of."

The announcement of the non-aggression pact, followed by one day Germany's announcement that it had concluded a trade agreement which apparently gave it access to Russia's oil, timber and wheat.

The rapprochement with Russia, therefore, took place along several fronts with lightning speed.

COME TO TERMS

Russia and Germany, after abusing each other for years and squabbling about ideological differences which seemed to be insurmountable, came to terms of what seems to be close friendship overnight.

The agreement to conclude the pact with Russia caused a sensation in all capitals. It was indicated by fragmentary excerpts from newspapers of many countries which the German official news agency (D.N.B.) brought to Berlin.

The agency kept its wires open long after the usual closing time to let Nazi Germany know what a sensation the action of the German government was creating.

Fuehrer Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, broke tradition by using red ink in its late city edition. A headline seven inches high said "Non-aggression pact German-Soviet Union."

The calm behavior of Germany and Italy in a world torn by war fears was due, the Boebachter said, to the knowledge of the two states that they had a surprise up their sleeves.

German Newspapers Carry Heavy Headlines Of New Nazi-Russ Move

BERLIN, Aug. 22 — Morning newspapers, carrying headlines in larger type than when they announced Anschluss with Austria, today informed Germany that the third Reich of Fuehrer Hitler and the Soviet Russia of Joseph Stalin will sign a non-aggression pact.

Intimates of Joachim Von Ribbentrop, the Reich foreign minister, gave him credit for the impending agreement and said the development was a direct blow at Great Britain.

These quarters predicted that Germany, on the basis of its latest diplomatic success, will open soon a new and violent campaign for return of its pre-war colonies.

The non-aggression pact, when concluded, will be the first Germany will have signed with a noncontiguous country.

In an apparent effort to explain Fuehrer Hitler's sudden change of attitude toward the Soviet Union, the Beobachter said, "We are led by a man who enjoys the confidence of his people, a man who consequently has multiplied the embarrassments and obstacles which the formal democratic system of government imposes on its directors. Without waste of time or nervous energy the Fuehrer triumphs over opposition, whether within the government camp or outside it."

Startled Paris Learns Of New Agreement: Cabinet Will Assemble

By JEAN ALLARY

Havas News Agency Staff Writer

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Official spokesmen said today France will consult immediately with Great Britain on the situation created by Germany's announcement that it will conclude a non-aggression pact with Russia.

Startled Paris learned of the proposed agreement late last night, not long after Premier Daladier summoned a cabinet meeting for today to deal with the European crisis, and announced a plenary session of the council of ministers, under President Lebrun, Thursday at the Elysee.

Authoritative quarters drew the following preliminary conclusions from the Berlin announcement:

1—The development will have a profound effect on the Anglo-Franco-Soviet military staff talks in Moscow, where the foreign negotiators apparently were taken completely by surprise.

2—The anti-comintern basis of the Italo-German axis policy evidently has been thrown to the winds, just as its "right of self-determination" policy was abandoned last year when the non-German nation of Czecho-Slovakia was absorbed into the Reich.

3—Japan apparently has been abandoned by the axis as a close partner, since if the Soviet frontiers are guaranteed on the west Moscow presumably can concentrate all its forces on the east.

Observers were certain the news added one more item to the crowded agenda before the cabinet.

France, observers pointed out, has particular reason to be interested in such a pact since she is linked in Moscow by a mutual assistance pact, signed some years ago by former Premier Pierre Laval.

Daladier called the cabinet meeting after conferring yesterday with Leslie Hore-Belisha, the British war secretary, who passed through Paris en route to London to attend the meeting of the British ministers today in Downing street.

The French foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, returning from a brief vacation, conferred with Daladier, and later received the British charge d'affaires in Paris, Ronald Campbell. Daladier also received Cesar Campinchi, French naval minister.

Proposed Treaty May Be Grandstand Play

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The New York Times (Independent), said today that the proposed German-Soviet Russian non-aggression treaty "may still turn out to be a grandstand play in the game of playing one side against the other."

The newspaper said that if the pact turned out to be a real agreement "it would mean that Russia has decided to keep out of Europe, and therefore out of every European war. It is easy to imagine Stalin, as he surveys the sharpening struggle between the Fascist and the Democratic powers, resolving to let them fight it out.

"A weakened, perhaps exhausted Europe would hasten the end of the Capitalist system and offer fertile ground for the spread of the proletarian revolution," the Times said.

The newspaper believed the pact would "undermine the position of Poland" and described it as "a diplomatic coup for Hitler." It recalled, however, that "once before at Rapallo in 1921 the Germans and the Russians stole a march on the other powers and signed an agreement behind the backs of France, England and Italy.

That agreement, though never repudiated, has not counted for much in recent years. Neither have other agreements Hitler has announced with a flourish."

Rome Surprised Over Signing Russ-Nazi Pact

ROME, Aug. 22. — Reports that Germany and the Soviet Union will sign a non-aggression pact hit Rome as a tremendous surprise. Officials, apparently taken as much unawares as the man in the street, offered no comment.

It was reported, however, that Premier Mussolini had been fully informed of Fuehrer Hitler's intention. Under the Italo-German military alliance the two powers are supposed to keep each other informed of such moves.

Bernardo Attolico, Italian ambassador to Germany, returned from Berlin yesterday. He conferred with Mussolini and Foreign Minister Ciano.

REGARDED CERTAIN

It was regarded as certain that the ambassador brought word from Hitler on the projected treaty.

The conjecture of some diplomats was that Mussolini was heartily in accord with this apparent manner of weakening the Anglo-French front and expected it to lead easily to German victory in the claims on Poland but to satisfaction of Italy's claims on France.

German Finance Minister Schwerin Von Krosig arrived in Rome last night.

SURE AXIS FIRM

Authoritative Italians said that they were sure the Rome-Berlin axis would remain as firm as ever. These quarters pointed out that Italy herself has had a treaty of friendship and non-aggression with Soviet Russia since 1933.

Diplomats, nevertheless, said they thought that the proposed German-Soviet pact might alter Japanese plans for adhering to the Italo-German military alliance.

Italian newspapers said it was up to Great Britain whether Germany's demand for Danzig would be granted by Poland or give rise to war.

Poland Prepares Food Supply If War Comes

By ROBERT DIEFFEL

Havas News Agency Staff Writer

WARSAW, Aug. 22—British subjects in Poland have been advised by their government to leave the country as soon as possible in view of the threat of war.

The British consulate sent out a circular urging Britons to leave unless compelled to remain for business or professional reasons.

The Polish government, meanwhile, is completing its preparedness measures and competent observers said almost 1,000,000 men were under arms.

Through its semi-official newspaper, Gazeta Polska, the government gave public notice ic all Poles to stock up enough food to last a family of five persons two weeks in event of war.

This "family food reserve." the notice said, should include such supplies as flour, dry and green vegetables, sugar, marmalade, lard, oil, cheese, smoked meat, coffee, tomato juice, salt and condensed milk. The paper also gave advice as to the best way of preserving this food from poisonous gases.

Another significant sign of approaching danger was the departure from Warsaw during the week-end of several German press correspondents and embassy staff members.

Although no new "mobilization" measures were announced by the Warsaw government, there was evidence of increasing preparedness moves.

Von Ribbentrop Will Pay Visit To Moscow

MOSCOW, Aug. 22—Tass, the official Soviet news agency, in a communique early today said German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop was coming to Moscow "for the purpose of negotiations on a German-Russian non-aggression pact.

The Tass communique said:

"After the signing of the trade agreements there emerged the problem of improving political relations between Germany and the U.S.S.R. An exchange of opinion established the presence of a desire to relieve the strain of political relations between both countries to eliminate the threat of war and sign a non-aggression pact. In connection with this Von Ribbentrop is coming to Moscow within a few days for the purpose of negotiations."

Diplomatic quarters were amazed at the development and foresaw a possible termination of the 10-day old military staff talks here with Britain and France.

Poland Takes Note Of New Nazi-Russ Pact

WARSAW, Aug. 22—Jozef Lipski, Polish ambassador to Germany, arrived here by airplane from Berlin late last night, conferred with Foreign Minister Joseph Beck early this morning on the implications for Poland of the impending German-Soviet non-aggression treaty.

Beck also discussed the surprising news with Leon Noel, the French ambassador.

Consternation Reigns In Europe Over Pact

BUDAPEST, Aug. 22—News of a German-Soviet non-aggression pact took southeastern Europe by surprise today.

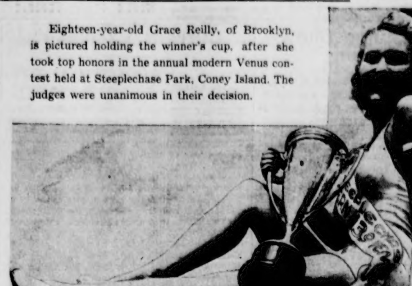

The first reaction of many officials was one of consternation. In Hungary, Slovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia officials were frank to state the pact may mark a major turning in world history.

For immediate consequences they feared it might lead to the collapse of Poland.

Nearly 50,000 communities, in which live 8,000,000 men, women and children, depend entirely upon trucks to bring them the necessities of life.

British Press Takes Grave View Impending German-Soviet Pact

LONDON, Aug. 22—The Daily Mail (Independent) today saw the impending German-Soviet non-aggression pact as ending the Franco - Russian mutual assistance treaty and the German-Italian-Japanese-Spanish front against the Communist International.

Vernon Bartlett wrote in the News-Chronicle (Liberal):

"The knowledge that she would have to fight a war on two fronts would have been a most effective deterrent to Germany. She would still have to do so, since Poland will defend herself, but it would be absurd to pretend that the military strength of Poland alone can possibly compare with that of a Poland confident of the support of Russia, at least as far as air warfare is concerned.

"But even if a situation which is becoming too serious for party politics, one cannot forget the responsibility of the British government, which failed to accept the Soviet offers of co-operation in March and April, and has since on so many occasions paid more attention to German than to Russian feelings."

The Daily Herald (Labor), said: "Parliament clearly must be called back into session, for the decisions that may have to be taken must be laid before it."

If arranged as reported, said the Herald, the German-Russian pact will represent "One of the most astounding and shocking reversals of policy in history."

The Daily Express (Independent), said Britain's "Commitment to the Poles is not affected" by the prospective Soviet-German pact, and added, "There is a big step between a war of words and a war of weapons."

CANADA BANK VAULTS HOLD BRITISH GOLD

Cautious Britons Transfer Bullion to Dominion In Case of War

OTTAWA, Aug. 22—With war clouds ominous in the international horizon, cautious Britons have decided in increasing numbers that the vaults of the Bank of Canada here offer the safest repository for their gold.

Transfers of gold bullion from the British Isles to Canada have increased sharply and some $60,000,000 worth has been shipped from London to the bank vaults here within the last two weeks.

While Bank of Canada officials are reticent about the total value of gold in storage here for British customers, it was estimated last night there might be as much as $450,000,000 of the precious yellow metal in the bank belonging to private customers.

HOLDING "QUITE A BIT"

Graham F. Towers, governor of the bank, said the institution, government-owned, was holding "quite a bit" of gold on foreign account "for safekeeping." Deputy-Governor Donald Gordon refused to discuss the gold in storage.

Neither would say how much the foreign gold totalled, but a statistical survey issued by the bank a month ago led to an estimate of about $325,000,000 at that time. The influx has swollen rapidly since then and the total may reach $500,000,000 within the next few weeks.

Gold held here for British and other European accounts, it was pointed out, adds to the strength Canada's internal economy as it is strictly a storage transaction.

conferences, Germany and Russia had little standing, and they knew it.

RAPALLO TREATY

But these underdogs entered the Genoa conference in 1922 and announced they had signed a treaty at Rapallo.

The Rapallo treaty was extended at Berlin later in the year. During the next four years, the two countries came ever closer politically and economically.

Germany, regaining a financial foothold after its devastating inflation, issued in 1925 a revolving credit of 300,000,000 reichsmarks for the purchase of German industrial goods by Russia. Russia met her payments promptly, and German industry received great benefit from the agreement. Within a short time, the credits were extended to 800,000,000 reichsmarks.

With increasing tension in the three or more years, however, trade relations were affected adversely.

VOLUME SHRINKS

By last year, the volume had shrunk to 100,000,000 marks (about $40,000,000).

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former economics minister and Reichsbank president, was a strong proponent of the Russian trade treaty. Despite his warnings that Germany needed Russia as a source of raw materials and as a customer, the Nazi party continued berating Russia. Trade dwindled.

Signs of Russian-German rapprochment came to light this year when Great Britain set out to build a front to oppose the Rome-Berlin axis.

It was announced trade negotiations were under way. Finally, on Sunday, it was announced a trade agreement had been concluded, providing a German credit of 200,000,000 marks (about $80,000,000) for Russian purchases in Germany.

Medicine Hat Man Saves Girl's Life

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Aug. 22.—Prompt action by a Medicine Hat man here Sunday saved the life of 14-year-old Annie Belzberg of Calgary, who was going down for the third time in the South Saskatchewan river when the boat in which she and three other children were crossing the river from a corn roast, capsized. The rescuer was Peter Simpson, Jr., who lives on the river bank and was awakened by the frantic cries of children.

VARIATION IN HEADWAY MADE WITH HARVEST

Cutting Nears Completion in Southeastern Part of Saskatchewan

REGINA, Aug. 22.—A wide variation is shown in harvesting progress in different parts of Saskatchewan, according to reports received over the week-end by the statistics branch of the Saskatchewan department of agriculture.

Wheat cutting is nearing completion in southeastern Saskatchewan, and from 70 to 80 per cent has been completed in the Regina-Weyburn and east central districts. About 55 per cent has been finished in the central portion of the province.

45 PER CENT CUT

In south central, southwestern and northern districts only about 25 to 30 per cent of the wheat has been cut and less than 15 per cent has been cut in west central Saskatchewan. Taking the province as a whole about 45 per cent of the wheat has been cut. Cutting of coarse grains also varies widely in different districts.

Some severe grasshopper injury to late oats and some damage to wheat by leaf-clipping occurred at a few scattered points in the Regina-Weyburn, southwestern and central districts during the past two weeks.

NO DEFINITE INDICATION

Insufficient threshing has been done in the fair and good crop areas to give a definite indication of yields, but the best returns are expected in the northern portion of the east central district, in northeastern Saskatchewan, and on the heavy land in west central district. Very little commercial crop is expected in the southeastern and on the lighter land in the Regina-Weyburn district. Other parts of the province show very considerable variation with anticipated yields ranging from poor to fairly good.

C. N. R. CHIEF SAYS PROSPECTS ON HIGH LEVEL

VICTORIA, Aug. 22.—S. J. Hungerford, Canadian National Railways president, Monday said the possibility of the company entering the British Columbia-California steamship service had been "considered," but that the company had never found that any substantial business existed to warrant the establishment of such a service.

Mr. Hungerford said he found business prospects for the future very favorable with present business on a higher level than at this season last year and the wheat crop for this season estimated at 400,000,000 bushels.

Gold held here for British and other European accounts, it was pointed out, adds to the strength Canada's internal economy as it is strictly a storage transaction.

Man Faces Trial On Fraud Count

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LEDUC, Aug. 22—Charles Ross Eshlin was remanded for trial by Magistrate R. C. Young last week on bond of $1,000 for having misappropriated proceeds from two cheques valued at $100 each, property of R. G. Mathias of Calmar. Constable J. W. Inquiry Into Charges Against Police Chief to Be Opened on Wednesday

VANCOUVER Aug. 22 — The Vancouver police commission Monday agreed to open an inquiry Wednesday into charges of inefficiency brought by Mayor Lyle Telford against Chief Constable W. W. Foster.

The commission agreed to open the probe after hearing a resolution passed by the city council last Thursday expressing confidence in members of the commission and our police force" and in the competence of the commission to conduct any inquiry "they might consider necessary."

Judge Harper suggested the inquiry start Tuesday but Mayor Telford said Wednesday would be more convenient as new summonses for witnesses would have to be issued.

Summonses originally issued for the inquiry might be declared invalid, he said, in view of the fact that after their issuance it was found he had not been sworn in legally as chairman of the police commission. He has since taken his oath.

Mayor Telford told his fellow-commissioners that he is prepared to step aside and "leave it up to you two." Last week the commission attempted to open an inquiry, only to have it founder on the principle that the mayor could not occupy the dual position of commission chairman and layer of the charges against Magistrate Foster and other members of the force.

Oil Drilling In B.C. Peace River Block Will Start Early Next Year

VICTORIA, Aug. 22.—Premier T. D. Pattullo announced Monday that oil drilling, sponsored by the provincial government, will get underway in British Columbia's Peace River block "early next year."

The drilling will culminate a long search for oil by government geologists in the northern district. The premier said the exact spot for the drilling has not yet been definitely selected but will be before the end of the year.

His announcement was made in a statement reviewing economic possibilities which would be provided by opening up northern areas of the province.

5,200-MILE FLIGHT

Premier Pattullo plans to set out on a 5,200-mile flight to the Arctic Ocean Wednesday. His route will take him to the Peace River district, down the Mackenzie river valley to the Arctic, then back across Yukon and Alaska and down through the Rocky Mountain trench route which has been proposed for the British Columbia-Alaska highway.

"Oil has already been discovered in the Mackenzie Valley," said Premier Pattullo, and I feel very sanguine that we shall also strike oil in British Columbia. Reports are very favorable and we shall next year begin drilling operations."

Regarding his proposed trip and the economic possibilities of northern British Columbia, the Premier said:

"I have long contemplated looking over the Mackenzie river area. The natural approach to the Mackenzie river is through British Columbia.

EXTEND BOUNDARIES

"I do not know what the Dominion authority may have in mind concerning the final disposition of the Northwest Territories, but I have nevertheless made the request that the boundaries of British Columbia be extended north following the 120th meridian.

"The 120th meridian is the boundary between British Columbia and Alberta from the Fraser River north in the vicinity of Macbride and logically should be continued north.

200,000 SQUARE MILES

"Roughly, the territory of the Mackenzie west of the 120th meridian comprises 200,000 square miles, which with the Yukon, would add 400,000 square miles to our present 398,000.

"Now is the time to lay the foundation for the future and indeed to hasten development of these northern areas. The development of the north would mean much to the south, as well as to Canada as a whole."

"The district would have to import all manufactured goods and the bulk of supplies generally and would pay for these goods from the development of natural resources.

"The building of the British Columbia-Yukon-Alaska highway will stimulate and accelerate development. From the thousands employed on the road we hope to develop some prospectors. For some time the oldtime prospector has been gradually passing out.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

"Here is a great opportunity for energetic young men. We shall conduct classes in mineralogy and geology and that valuable mines will eventually be opened up, we may take as assured.

The itinerary of Premier Pattullo's trip is for 12 days flying in stages of 300 or 400 miles a day. Accompanying him will be Ben Hecht, his secretary, and a newspaperman. A special Canadian Airways plane, piloted by W. G. Gilbert, has been chartered for the trip.

AGED PIONEER OF HIGH RIVER DISTRICT DIES

HIGH RIVER, Alta., Aug. 22 — Mrs. H. M. Olsen, 96, oldest pioneer of this district 40 miles south of Calgary who pioneered in Utah, Idaho and Arizona before coming to Alberta in 1903, died here Monday.

Born in Denmark, she came to North America in a sailboat in 1856. After an adventurous trip by oxteam across the United States to an area near Salt Lake City she met and married Henry Olsen.

Funeral services will be held here Wednesday.

Schooner Wrecked

HALIFAX, Aug. 22.—East coast radio reported today the schooner Vita M. Brown was wrecked on Belle Isle in a heavy northeast gale Saturday. The schooner was a total loss but the crew was saved.

CYCLE BLAMED FOR DEATH OF SIX PERSONS

LONDON, Aug. 22—A child's bicycle, believed to have acted as a conductor for lightning, was blamed last night for the death of six persons and injury to 30 others during a severe electrical storm over the London area.

The victims of the storm were in Valentine's Park, in suburban Ilford, when the downpour began. They rushed to a shelter but when a bicycle placed near a wooden stand apparently attracted the lightning.

Most of the victims were women and children. A woman was slightly injured as a result of an explosion, accompanied by fire, in a subway coach at the Wembley Park station. A short circuit caused by rain was the cause of the accident.

London itself was plunged into semi-darkness.

The Danger Continues

An ominous hush has fallen upon Europe, similar to the quiet Lloyd George once called "the hush which precedes the hurricane." Rumors of war are running their snarling course over a darkening continent. Europe still is at peace, but it is a peace of apprehension.

What is Poland going to do? Will she capitulate before the relentless German pressure or make a last stand in defence of rights which, she maintains, to yield would be death as well as dishonor. That is the central issue, before which all others dwarf into casual insignificance.

During the sombre developments of the past few days, Polish leaders have kept silent as to their intention. German and Danzig officials have loudly proclaimed their policies; Italy has broken into full cry against Poland; the Pope has tried to rally the scattered moral forces of the world in a brave appeal for peace; England and France watch emergency cabinet meetings called in an anxious hour. Poland alone does not say what she will do. But it is the silence of an unshakable resolution, not the exhausted silence of despair.

The moment Poland is forced to fight for Danzig and the Polish corridor, the British and French guarantees to place all their armed strength at her disposal become immediately operative. That is why Poland's decision forms the crux of the situation.

Last Tuesday, government officials in London were quoted in the New York Times as having definitely abandoned the idea of bringing pressure to bear upon Poland to sue for peace at Germany's hands. Lingering advocates of appeasement still exist, but even they recognize that neither Britain nor France can intervene without Poland's consent. Thus far Poland has not given the faintest sign that she even contemplates making any such gesture. Col. Back, her foreign minister, has indignantly denied Poland ever would make such a gesture of surrender to force.

The fact that Belgium and other small states are meeting to draft a common policy is ample proof they know that a war over Danzig will not be confined to eastern Europe. It will run riot over the whole continent. Once again it will be a major clash between the armed forces of Great Powers.

Germany and Italy have been doing most of the talking and parading. Urgently imperative is it, therefore, for Chamberlain and Daladier to speak out, in forthright, challenging terms, ere it is too late, and to warn Hitler and Mussolini that another impulsive step may unleash a fatal sequence of military forces that would put peace beyond rescue by the resources of European diplomacy.

Hitler has come to the edge of the abyss. He again holds the sinister threat of war before the world, counting on frayed nerves and anxious judgments to be his allies. That is why the supreme need of the hour is for a sober courage, a wise steadfastness and an unflinching refusal to be stampeded into a panic. Anything else is simply playing into his hands.

Today's cabinet meetings in Britain and France are immensely important. A firm stand at this eleventh hour may still avail to recover the initiative for the democracies and thereby give a new lease of life to the threatened peace of the world.

Alaska and Refugees

Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior for the United States, believes that European industries that have been broken up can be started in Alaska with profit to this continent. He points out that Alaska's territory, climate and resources are equal to all Scandinavia, whose population is 12,000,000, while the population of the northern possession of the United States is only 60,000.

The report issued by Mr. Ickes' department, prepared by his under-secretary, Harry Slattery, shows Alaska has waterpower, timber, minerals, fish and fur upon which an expanded economy may be built. At present, the report argues, limitation of immigration has had a tragic effect upon Alaska. Immediate lowering of the barriers is advocated, so that new industries might be set up to produce goods the United States now imports from Europe.

Should the plan not be balked, Canada might benefit to a material degree by the large market for consumers' goods that would be made available.

The proposal's chief merit is that it puts a definite project for coping with the refugee problem before the public for consideration. Mr. Ickes says 98 per cent of Alaska is public land available for homesteads, factory sites, fur farms, and other productive pursuits, provided capital can be raised to enable the new settlers to circumvent the initial difficulties. He scoffs at arguments that the Alaska climate is too rigorous, stating that in southern and southeastern Alaska, both climatic conditions and shipping facilities are favorable.

If more government officials emulate Mr. Ickes' example and advance constructive proposals, something of note may yet be done for European refugees. Expressions of sympathy are not enough.

Should Married Women Work?

An almost constant rain of abuse has beaten upon women who have jobs, ever since hard times flung men on relief. Married women are the special target of this criticism. It is claimed that these women have taken away work that otherwise would have supported men urgently in need of it.

The International Federation of Women, hurt by this talk, decided to find out how much truth sustained these charges. Labor conditions in twelve countries were reviewed, with results that brought great cheer to the federation. It found that about half the women who answered the questions on this subject were married. Almost all the married women provide partial support to their dependents, and some are compelled, due to the illness of their husbands or for other reasons, to assume sole charge of household expenses.

The finding is that the vast majority of married women work not because they want to, but because they have to. Taking their jobs away from them, the federation says, might open up a few positions for men now unemployed. But that would be offset by the number of families now supported by women who then would become public charges.

The federation, naturally, is anxious to put the best case forward it can for the employed women it represents. But if the figures it cites are correct, the conclusion seems to be that in most instances married women who are working may be presumed to need the job. Where the husband, however, is making enough money to look after the family, it seems an abuse of this principle to allow his wife to make an additional salary. Public good demands that such a situation should be corrected wherever it is found.

Twenty years ago today, Aug. 22, 1919, advantage was taken of the presence of the Prince of Wales in Quebec to have the Quebec bridge officially opened. As a fact the bridge had been in use for the best part of two years, so that the "opening" was more of a symbol than anything else. The "Smiling Prince" was in happy mood; there was a fine turnout of both the official class and the common folk, all of whom rejoiced that at long last what was then considered the final step on the bridge had been reached. Since then, however, it has been widened and provision made for motor and horse-drawn traffic, as well as for the trains, its original object.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Can a man be too good for his job, especially if the job is the writing of stories and plays? You'd say not, yet when Leonard Merrick passed away a few days ago his fame was greatest among his fellow-writers. He never attained "best seller" rank, though Sir J. M. Barrie called him "the novelist's novelist."

A NOVELIST'S NOVELIST Even among general readers his support came largely from this side of the Atlantic and least from England where he lived, and where his scenes were laid.

"Conrad in Quest of His Youth" was his best known novel, which if you have not read, you should begin at once. Says Sir James Barrie, "There are a hundred surprises in 'Conrad.' Even when you have travelled far with him and know precisely in what circumstances he is next to be placed, shut the book and ask yourself what is next to happen, and you'll find you don't know in the least. Twenty lines from the end, you have no idea how the story is to end. When we come to the end we must feel that there was no other, that he has merely discovered the truth."

Yet with all the surprises, you'll feel that everything could have happened just so to yourself if you had returned with money from South America to look up old sweethearts and regain your lost youth. All Merrick's stories are packed with humor, and underlying all a half-unheard strain of pity and irony.

o o o

William Dean Howells said that Merrick's endings were too unhappy and his characters were not of sufficiently high degree to arouse popular interest in their lives. If so he failed to learn the first lesson of his writing experience, when he sold for $2 a 3,000-word story to a magazine which specifies to its writers that there was to be "no hero below the rank of a Baronet's son." Merrick had been intended for the bar, but preferred acting at which he failed and writing at which he had more success. He told some American reporters that the reason for his limited sales in England was "without the least doubt, because the majority of my books deal with artists, musicians, painters, sculptors, writers, and all of them have not arrived. Considering that the English people are less interested in art than any white people on the face of the globe, why should I expect them to read my stuff."

THE STUFF OF HEROES

If you're looking for good titles in the Merrick books, there's these, "When Love Flies Out o'the Window," "The Position of Peggy Harper," "The Man Who Understood Women," "The Quaint Companions," "Cynthia," "The Man Who Was Good," "The House of Lynch," "The Actor-Manager" and "While Paris Laughed."

o o o

I notice an American paper refers to Merrick's "Conrad Inquest of His Youth." For a companion piece, how's this from a police court case last week:

Magistrate: "Where was the lady struck?"

Witness: "The lady wasn't driving the truck."

o o o

Eight million men are standing to arms in Europe this week, in addition to the millions fighting in China and the eastern and western mobilizations of Russia. Each nation is showing how it can beat its rival nation. In the Po Valley, the Italians have been repelling an imaginary invasion from the French frontier. In the Balkans, 2,000,000 reservists are drawing battle lines—Turks against Bulgarians, Hungarians against Rumanians, Greeks preparing to defend their Albanian border, England repelling aerial hordes and German reharsing aerial and submarine games in the Baltic to prove that she cannot be blockaded. France and Poland have been mobilized at war strength for many months.

THE ARMIES REHEARSE

Proponents of the theory that the best way to ensure peace is to prepare for war, argue that this spectacle of preparedness is too spectacular to herald war. Hostilities start, they say, when they are least expected and prepared for.

Let's hope for the sake of men who will be maimed, mothers who will be bereaved, and sweethearts who will never know a husband, that the armies after parading to show their strength will walk quietly home again. If these 8,000,000 men can be demobilized without a battle, that will be a victory greater than any on the battlefield.

Religion Day By Day

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

ONE MOTHER AND MISSIONS

A mother with sons in college asked me, "What can you say to these new ideas that one religion is as good as another; and that Christianity is only one of the ethnic faiths, each suited to its own people?"

"That's easy. First, if Christianity is an ethnic religion, it is Asiatic. For it was born and developed in Asia, and came to us of the Occident only by missionary propaganda. Wherever it has gone it was produced the same fruits.

"As to the adequacy of the non-Christian faiths, there is a simple statement, which any traveller can substantiate, that 'the answer to Confucianism is China; the answer to Hinduism is India; the answer to Buddhism is Tibet; the answer to Shintoism is Japan; the answer to Mohammedanism is Arabia and the whole Moslem world.' The Bible is utterly scientific when it says 'By their fruits shall ye know them'."

We pray for escape from muddy and manacled minds, O Lord. May we know the truth which sets us free. Amen.

Current Comment

The New Army

The unanimity with which the revival of the compulsory system has been accepted has been altogether remarkable; but it is easily understood as springing from the deep-rooted instincts of a nation that throughout its history, as Colonel Hawkes' article shows, has considered this the natural way of meeting any direct threat to its security. For reasons strongly founded in political experience the English have distrusted standing armies in time of peace as a danger to liberty. The training of such a force as the new militia, at a time when the use of the word peace seems almost a violence to language, is precisely the reverse. It will be a body filled with the very spirit of democratic liberty, to preserve which it is being created. More even than the war-time army it promises to be a socially levelling force, in which the richest and the poorest will serve side by side on equal terms, an experience profitable to both, and, it seems, already welcomed by both.—The Times, London.

The German Loan

Sleepy democracy must be waking up. The United States securities exchange commission has called a halt to a new Nazi scheme to help German arms buying. The Nazis proposed to sell $73,000,000 of 50-year 3 per cent German bonds in the United States. Proceeds would service German corporation and municipal bonds unloaded on Uncle Sam's easy mark bankers in pre-Hitler days.

On the surface, because the Nazis will not allow any cash to leave Germany, they are asking Americans to help preserve German credit by paying current German debts in the United States with long term, low interest rate securities. With this new credit and the cash saved at home, more guns, tanks, fifth column and bombs can be created. But a still more sinister implication is that these new German bonds unquestionably would be sold to the deluded victims of Nazi propaganda in the United States. Two objectives would be attained; new credit for war materials and the establishment of a financial reason for keeping German-Americans in the Nazi camp.

This is a subject that needs careful watching in Canada; there is little doubt but that something similar will be attempted here.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Poems on Grasshoppers

Can anyone in Saskatchewan today imagine anyone ever having written a poem in tribute to grasshoppers? Yet a woman reader of The Leader-Post sends us a bit of verse in tribute to 'hoppers that appeared recently in The Children's Newspaper, an English publication. The poem is ascribed to Anacreon, a Greek poet of the sixth century B.C. Our woman reader writes: "Surely this wasn't written of our grasshoppers!" Here is the poem:

Happy insect! all agree
None can be more blessed than thee;
Thou, for joy and pleasure born,
Sipp'st the honeyed dew of morn.
Happier than the sceptred king.
Midst the boughs we hear thee sing.
All the season's varied store
All thy little eyes explore,
Fruits that ripen, and flowers that shine,
Happy insect, all are thine.
Thee the great Apollo blest
With a voice above the rest.
Thou from wasting age are free,
Time has nought to do with thee.
Skilful creature, child of song,
Though to earth thou dost belong,
Happy thing! thou seem'st to me
Almost a little god to be!

What might be written of grasshoppers in Saskatchewan today if someone were asked to spring into poetry about them? Might this reflect general sentiment:

Insect pest, how we would swat thee,
Swat thee till we'd end thy days,
On your way, you cursed of all men,
Never can we like your ways.

We admit this bit of muse may not be up to much, but maybe the sentiment will be fairly generally subscribed to.—Regina Leader-Post.

Hitler Over the Catholic Church

Rosenberg is the one who sets the philosophic tone for the Nazis. He it was who said last year: "The Catholic church must disappear." News dispatches have since proven that this was no empty declamation, but an order. The Gestapo has been constantly arresting members of the clergy on trumped-up charges of "resistance to Nazism"; monasteries have been forcibly entered and searched for "concealed arms" and the Catholic press is barred for "criticisms distasteful to National Socialism." This has been the case in Bohemia, Moravia, in Austria and wherever the Nazis wield control or influence.

The attack on the Catholic church in Austria is especially significant. It is in effect the direct reply of Hitler that not even a policy of conciliation on the part of the Catholic leaders will do. Despite the fact that Cardinal Innitzer came forward to welcome the Nazi troops into Austria, Hitler's treatment of the Catholic church remains unchanged. Priests in Austria have been arrested, sermons censored, religious schools closed, and many school buildings have been converted into army barracks. Government commissioners have taken over the administration of Austria's largest monastery. The church is forbidden to appoint parish priests or higher dignitaries without submitting the names to Nazi party authorities for approval.

Moreover, the person of Cardinal Innitzer has been subjected to indignity and even to danger. Shortly after the invasion of Austria the prelate was greeted at the parish church with rotten eggs and potatoes. Last October Nazis broke into his palace in Vienna, partially destroyed the building and injured a number of priests. To protect the Cardinal's life, the papal flag was removed from his limousine and its license number changed. At about this time another leading figure in world Catholicism died at Dachau, the most dreaded of the Nazi concentration camps. This was Dr. Freidrich Fundtr, former editor of the "Reichspost," the Christian Socialist paper in Vienna.

It seems clear that this is to be expected in all areas that fall under Nazi control; in Poland, too, if Poland were conquered, and in that country more than 70 per cent of the population are of the Catholic faith.—Toronto Star.

Should Be Consistent

Editor, Bulletin: In your columns of Saturday, August 12, under the heading "The Inquiring Reporter," the question of reducing the age limit for Old Age Pensions to commence at age 65 was taken under review. All who were interviewed were in agreement, which I fully appreciate.

I would like to emphasize the opinions then expressed by drawing attention to the inconsistency of the government in fixing the retiring age for civil servants at age 65 and not recognizing the fact that civil servants are public servants and that you, the reader, and I, are the public, and the government are the elected members of the public to carry out their mandates; which means that the government officials, our representatives, treat their subordinates and our servants, with more consideration than they do their masters.

Civil servants in comparison to other workers are favored in many ways. Much of their work is of a routine character. They have steady sheltered employment, limited sick pay when sick, easy hours of employment, and holidays with pay, etc. But what is more important, they have no worry of losing their employment and the consequent worry and anxiety for the future.

The statement came over the radio on Sunday that there were $48,000 on relief in Canada.

A further thought came to me as to whether the dominion government fully realized that these immigrants from the Old Land now over 65 years of age, many of whom came here over 30 years ago, and who severed their home ties, parted from relatives and friends to help build up the British Empire, are sacrificing that Old Age Pension which would be theirs if they had remained in Great Britain.

I am not in disagreement with the civil servants receiving pensions or anything else, but it must always be borne in mind that we, the public, have to pay for the same; further, it must never be forgotten that the laborer and the artizan have played their part with greater risk to health and limb under far more climatic hardships than the majority of civil servants.

In a democratic government there should be consistency.

Says Gray Misinformed

Editor, Bulletin: E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader, is quoted in the daily press of Tuesday the 16th inst., as having attacked the nomination of Mr. Alfred Speakman as an Independent candidate for the provincial constituency of Red Deer, on the ground that there was already an independent candidate in the field in the person of Mr. MacLellan, the present member for the Innisfail constituency, and that Mr. Speakman's nomination had served to divide the forces arrayed against the present government.

It is apparent that Mr. Gray has been misinformed as to the situation in the Red Deer constituency and the positions occupied in the constituency by Mr. MacLellan and by Mr. Speakman. In this constituency, as in many others throughout the province, efforts have been carried on for some time to bring together the various elements of political thought with the view to nominating an independent citizens' candidate satisfactory to the majority of the citizens within the riding. As a result, an independent constituency association was created and a committee appointed representative of the citizens within this riding who are opposed to the present government.

This committee made arrangements for a nominating convention which was held in Innisfail on August 11, at which four names were placed in nomination and Mr. Speakman was duly nominated by a majority of the ballots cast. It must be pointed out as well that this convention was attended by

GOLDFIELDS

CACKLE OF HEN STARTLES MINERS

The cackle of a hen startled this mining camp on a recent morning and Tom Kelly hurried to assure everyone that all was well. The chickens which Kelly had flown in a little over four months ago have grown up and are commencing to lay. Kelly's flock claim credit of producing the first eggs laid in Goldfields.

Early in April 100 baby chicks were flown from Edmonton, Thirty-five have turned out to be pullets. Mrs. Kelly has charge of the flock and says she will keep them at least as long as they continue to lay. The cockerels, however, are being sold to local residents who crave chicken dinner for $1.50 each alive.

Shorty Baggstrom, employee of the Melnnis Fish Products Corporation at Crackingstone point and owner of the most northerly Saskatchewan mink ranch was brought to the C.M. & S. hospital recently suffering from an attack of acute indigestion. He has recovered completely.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE

Members of the I.O.D.E. are convinced that nature favors them, for their annual flower show was held Friday afternoon and the same night seven degrees of frost ruined most of the gardens here. Growth in the last ten days has been extraordinary and the show was very successful.

BASHAW

LAST RITES HELD FOR OLD TIMER

Funeral services were held last week for Otto Albert Newinger, 69, pioneer resident of Alberta, who died recently following a short illness, from the Catholic church in Mirror with Father Harrison of Lacombe officiating. A native of Lecia, New York state, Mr. Newinger came to Alberta in 1908. He settled at Lethbridge and nine years ago moved to the Mirror district, where he lived until the time of his death.

Surviving are his wife, three sons and five grandchildren. Interment took place in the Mirror cemetery.

Betty Hume, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hume of Bashaw, recently played a prominent part in the rescue of a small boy at Sylvan Lake. The little boy fell into deep water and was in difficulty when pulled out by Betty. She applied artificial respiration until help arrived.

ERSKINE

The song of the binder is again heard in various places throughout the district as a umber of farmers are starting to cut wheat. In many fields the straw is now dead ripe but the berry is still green which means shrivelling and helps further to confuse the predicting crop yields. On the farm of Mr. E. A. Underwood barley that had been swathed threshed out about thirty bushels to the acre.

Workmen are coming into the district on every freight train. They stop off at the small towns and in some cases strike out for farms seeking harvest work. Farmers are reluctant to hire more than absolutely necessary for the harvest returns are sure to be disappointing.

LLOYDMINSTER

A feature of the weekend activities at Lloydminster was the flor de-rie, show held in the Masonic hall by the Lloydminster Horticultural Society. An outstanding attraction was a display of dahlias by Mr. A. J. Terry of Wilkie, Saskatchewan. In recognition of Mr. Terry's contribution to the success of the show, the society decided to present him with a special cup.

Another exhibit that drew forth much praise was the showing of sweet peas by D. McKenna of Lloydminster, among which are some exceptional blooms there being as many as 15 on one stem.

Mr. R. Delalande, president of the Horticultural Society, was in charge and judging was in the capable hands of Mr. Allaway, of the Scott Experimental Farm, Saskatchewan.

During the afternoon tea was served by Mrs. F. S. Day, Mrs. Lindsay Miller and Mrs. H. Coles, wives of the directors of the society, assisted by several young ladies of the town.

ROSALIND

The Greenview Sunday school classes and the Mission Band under Mrs. Ashley, held their annual picnic at the river near here last Saturday. A large number of sport attractions featured the afternoon, which was highlighted by a race between Thomas Gould, W. C. Pierce and J. R. Boulter, all well over 80 years of age. It was declared a dead heat between all three.

Mrs. Harry Ashley and Marian and Doris Ashley left over the week-end for a vacation at Lethbridge, where Mrs. Ashley will visit her sister, Mrs. McLeod.

Mr. and Mrs. Nordbye Weller and family are moving to Wanda, where Mr. Weller will take up his new position as principal of the school there.

Heroine

Screams of 19-year-old Cynthia Chapin, above, of Hartford, Conn., brought tugboat to rescue of 32 companions in capsized cabin cruiser off Hartford, Conn., after she swam a quarter mile through fog and darkness in Long Island Sound until her cries attracted attention.

LACOMBE

SERVICES MARK DECORATION DAY

A large crowd attended the Decoration Day services held here on Sunday afternoon in the Memorial Park under the auspices of the Canadian Legion and the Lest We Forget Club. In the opening address, Mayor Thomas Wilkes made a plea for the preservation of peace and democracy, which was followed by a prayer by Rev. W. E. Herbert and a hymn by the audience.

Following an address by Rev. A. L. Carr, S. T. Halton read the King's message and a list of the men from Lacombe and district who had made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War. Flowers were then placed on the war memorial stone by Billy Rankin and Margaret Marshall, after which the Last Post was sounded by C. W. Braithwaite of Spiritsville. Two minutes' silence were observed by those present.

KILLAM

First grain to be delivered at Killam this year was taken to the Pool elevator by Leslie Palmer over the week-end. Don't you know that the crop averaged 18 bushels to the acre, weighed 58 pounds to the bushel and graded No. 2 Northern.

ERSKINE

Rochon Sands, at Buffalo Lake, had another influx of vacationers last week, every cottage is filled again. Visitors from far distant points registered at the resort store—Cape Town, Kansas; California and Chicago were represented. The dances every week at the pavilion draw many people from all over the district. The season will close with a midnight frolic on September 4.

GLENDON

Dolores, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Christopherson, is a patient in the K.H.P. General Hospital, Bonnyville, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis recently.

Rev. L. M. and Mrs. Hanson with their guests, Mr. G. Loken of Bawlf, Miss L. Linglerde of Camrose and Mr. Claus and Miss Ida Hovelan of Ryley spent three days this week at Cold Lake.

New residences are being erected in Glendon for the Cecil Smith and Emil Dubas families.

Mrs. Arthur Setterholm of Proctor, Minnesota, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Jas. A. Arnott.

VETERAN

The Veteran Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. T. Alkinson recently when Mrs. Alkinson, delegate to the recent constituncy confrence held at Loyalist, gave a report on the conference. Mrs. C. Bennitt presented a paper on thrift problems. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Bennitt in September.

Jack Doyle returned recently from a two-week vacation trip to Sylvan Lake.

The Nose Hill Y. F. W. A. entertained the Veteran group last week, when a delightful evening was spent playing games, singing and holding contests. More than 25 attended.

SYLVAN LAKE

Constable H. C. Russell of Edmonton is a new R.C.M.P. officer here. He succeeds J. E. B. Hallett who has been transferred to Edmonton.

Murder on the Boardwalk

By Elinore C. Stone

CAST OF CHARACTERS

CHRISTINE THORENSON came to visit her cousin, found a mystery.

BILL YARDLEY was a fake. Known for watching Christine.

GEORGE WILMOT employed Christine as a Boardwalk artist.

CHANDRA looked into the future —and into the past.

Yesterday: Chandra warns Christine to be on her guard, begs her to come to him for advice. Christine believes it's all a fake. After the show ends, she remains. Chandra comes to her at once.

CHAPTER V

I AM glad you waited," Chandra began in a direct simplicity Christine had not expected.

"No doubt," she said icily, "this was a fair exchange. But don't you think you might have let me in on the plot?"

"Miss Thorenson"—his smile was tired—almost, it seemed to Christine, worried—"I suppose there's no way of convincing you that I really want to help you?"

"So you do know my name! . . . But then, of course, you've had me followed by some of your spies ever since I got off the train. Perhaps even before. . . . And if you're a Hindu, I'm the Duchess of Windsor. . . . Well, I'm fed up on theatrical tricks. What I'd like is some real triple-threat facts — if you've got any."

"Then, Miss Thorenson," the "swami" told her with a gentleness so persuasive that, for the moment, Christine's stern, young skepticism was almost broken down, "you were very unwise to register at your new hotel under an assumed name. I see for you a very real danger."

"Well, Mr. Chandra—or whatever your real name is," Christine said, "since I seem to have no secrets from you, you couldn't suggest, I suppose, exactly what it is I ought to do — aside from inspecting my baggage for an unmentionable object presumably placed there by a person or persons unknown?"

"I could suggest—but it would do no good," he told her wearily, "that if you find—what I have reason to think you will — you communicate with me at once. Any messenger I will gladly place at your disposal. I shall then be in a position to advise you."

"Thanks a lot." Christine flashed. "I'll take my chances on the persons unknown."

As she marched out, she glanced at her watch. . . . After 11, and she was a good mile from home. Well, she needed a brisk walk to clear her mind after all that hocus-pocus.

Of course the idea that she could be in any danger was just funny. The whole scenario was ridiculously clear — beginning with that telephone girl — and all so crude and bungling.

Yet, in spite of her bravado, Christine jumped when a voice said at her shoulder, "It would be you. Don't you know that the girl with eyes and hair like yours is safe from unwelcome attentions on the Boardwalk at night?"

"So it seems," Christine said when she could control her voice. "No doubt if you had your own curfew would ring at sunset for every woman under 80."

The bareheaded young man must have run up the stairway from the beach, for he was breathing quickly, and his hair was rumpled.

"Well," he went on with such infectious pleasure that Christine found herself feeling for the first time that day that it was wholesome to be young and alive, "maybe I'll be able to enjoy my meals now. When I called the Overlook this afternoon, they told me you'd checked out. . . . But let's get out of this mob."

They had been standing just in front of Christine's "studio." As they moved on under the lights of the Twentieth Century Pier, Christine stopped short in the midst of the crowded, noisy Boardwalk.

"But"— she cried—"why, you're drenched!"

The sleeves and front of his coat and his hair were dripping, trickles of water ran down his light trousers, and his shoes were sodden and caked with sand.

"Oh, that!" He glanced down with some embarrassment. "I got pretty close to the surf-line, and a big one caught me amidship."

Christine was not an introspective young person. She was no more capable of analyzing her sudden lift of spirits than she had been of understanding her restlessness and loneliness of the earlier evening had not been entirely due to worry about Cousin Erma's strange desertion. She only knew now that she felt more at home with this tanned stranger whom she had met barely 24 hours ago—more warmly glad to see him—than she would have felt with any one she had known a lifetime; and that her pleasure in being with him again was as right and natural as the clean sea breeze.

"I'm cold, too," he was going on plaintively. "Something tells me I would feel right good at this minute—and Decker's is just a comfortable walk along the Boardwalk. That's the place in Surf City that doesn't reek with fried potatoes. . . . And I hate eating alone. Come on, Miss Thorenson," he wheedled with an engaging grin, "be a good scout."

"I'd feel so, only"— Christine laughed for the first time that day —"except that the fellers call you 'Bill.' I don't know your name."

I answer much more docilely to Bill," but if I forgot to mention it, the rest of it's Yardley," he told her. Then he added with something behind the smile in his eyes that made her catch her breath, "I hope you're going to like it."

While they were waiting at the table Bill had found by a window that overlooked the sea, Bill said, "It occurs to me that there's a lot about me besides my name that you don't know. I raise horses for a living—mighty fine horses, by the way. But the market wasn't too good this year, so I took over the riding school here. You see, I've had a handicap over you all along. When I heard you say you were Mrs. Talbert's cousin, I knew you wouldn't be interested in lifting your eyebrows.

"If you'd known the whole truth," Christine said wryly, "you'd probably have kept your hand on that watch. . . . Not that I'm not Mrs. Talbert's cousin; but there've been occasions—not so long ago—when a nice 17-jewel watch might have made my fingers itch."

"Christine," he said abruptly, "something tells me you're very honest. Why not get it out of your system?"

"You'll probably laugh." Christine hesitated. "I hope you will. I've had a feeling all along that I ought to; but somehow my sense of humor doesn't seem to be working this week-end."

Yet when she did tell him the whole story of the preposterous day, he did not laugh.

Instead, he frowned over his cigaret. "So Chandra took a flier in stocks. That bird cuts a pretty wide swathe. People come here to consult him about everything from the baby's first tooth to the outcome of the presidential election: financiers, successful writers and artists and actors; political bosses, social registerites. They say he used to be an actor. He's probably part Hindu—part mystic, part shrewd business man, and part stage manager. I've never heard of his being involved in anything really shady. . . . In fact, if Chandra told me to go home and look under my bed for Barnum's elephant, I'm not sure I wouldn't take a chance."

They had left the restaurant, and had strolled back to the Twentieth Century Pier. Suddenly Bill broke off, "Look — there's something wrong!"

On the Boardwalk just ahead a crowd was milling about, interspersed with figures in uniform.

Afterwards, Christine remembered that everything that happened during the grim hours that followed had much the quality of an unreal but none the less terrifying dream.

Dies Thinks U. S. Will File Charges Against Bund

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Chairman Dies (Dem., Texas) of the Committee on Un-American Activities of the United States House of Representatives said Monday he expected the Department of Justice to file charges soon against the Communist Party, the German-American Bund and allied organizations, accusing them of failure to register as agents of foreign governments.

"I hope that the issue can be tried in the federal courts," he added, "so that if the organizations are found guilty the leaders will be put in the penitentiary."

Dies said the Justice Department had been investigating the organizations following a report made by him last November that they be prosecuted.

6 Canadian Navy Cadets Successful In Passing Tests

LONDON, Aug. 22—Six cadets of the Royal Canadian Navy were successful at the admiralty's passing out examination held aboard H.M.S. Vindictive. J. W. Roberts, S. G. Moore and R. B. Morris passed with second class honors; E. M. Chadwick, B. Harvey and E. G. Robins with third class honors.

106 accredited delegates, representing almost all polling divisions within the riding.

Prior to this convention Mr. MacLellan had been nominated as an independent Progressive at a meeting of his supporters. No attempt was made by Mr. MacLellan or his supporters to contact the Citizens' Committee already set up or to secure their approval of his candidature. Nor was this to be expected, for Mr. MacLellan, while personally hostile to Mr. Aberhart is still sitting on the Social Credit benches in the legislature, has not disowned the theory of Social Credit but only its leadership, and could not be considered as a true independent, as I understand he is a member of the Independent Progressive Association of Alberta which was organized by and is largely composed of the non-planning Social Credit members in the legislature. Under these circumstances Mr. MacLellan could hardly be considered a bona fide opposition Citizens' candidate for the riding nor could he be accepted as satisfactory to the majority of its citizens.

In view of these facts we feel that Mr. Gray's attack upon Mr. Speakman and through him upon the convention which nominated him as a candidate, was quite unwarranted and could only have been made under a complete misapprehension of the true situation.

E. S. HOGG,
Chairman Independent Constituency Committee of the Red Deer Riding.

Visiting Artist Has Treasures In Oils To Remind Her of Beautiful Jasper Park

HOLIDAYING in beautiful Jasper Park is delightful in itself but when in addition one can put down its beauties on canvas, she has treasures for a lifetime. Such has been the pleasure of Mrs. Shillard Smith of Edgewater Park, New Jersey and Clearwater, Florida, who during a six weeks' holiday in the mountain resort has painted in oils more than a dozen of its beauty spots. Returning to the east Mrs. Smith and her husband stopped off in Edmonton overnight and were guests until Tuesday noon of Mrs. David Bowman, an olden time friend.

TO EVERY PART OF THE WORLD

Mrs. Smith's travels have taken her to countries in almost every part of the world and each time she has returned with paintings of the places she has visited, paintings that will keep fresh in her mind the happy times spent there. Paying her first visit to Jasper, Mrs. Smith found it to be one of the most beautiful spots she has seen and hopes to return to Edmonton shortly to exhibit a group of her paintings at the Edmonton Museum of Arts.

Prominent in art circles in the United States, Mrs. Smith was for a number of years president of the Plastic Club of Philadelphia, the first women's art club in America. She is still a member in the society and is now president of the Clearwater Art Museum, a member of the Women Painters and Sculptors of New York, the Art Alliance of Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Museum, and many other women's organizations.—R.L.M.H.

Trousseau Tea Is Held For Bride-Elect

Complimenting her daughter, Miss France de Savoye who is to be married on Wednesday, Mrs. H. de Savoye entertained charmingly at tea in her home on Sunday afternoon. Upwards of 60 guests called during the afternoon to extend their best wishes to the bride-elect. Receiving her guests, Mrs. de Savoye was becomingly attired in an afternoon frock of royal blue, brightened by a corsage of red roses at her shoulder.

Miss de Savoye chose for the occasion a lovely dress in white chiffon and wore at her shoulder yellow roses on corsage. Mrs. Louis de Savoye of Montreal, sister-in-law of the bride-to-be who showed the trousseau things, wore a New York model in black, with rose taffeta trim. Her flowers were pink roses.

A bouquet of pink and yellow sweet pea blossoms centred the tea table at which Mrs. H. K. Groff, cousin of the bridegroom-elect, and Mme. G. Bastide presided. Candelabra holding pink and yellow tapers lighted the attractively laid table.

Guests were received in the drawing room tastefully appointed with gladioli in tones of pink and yellow. Miss Gabrielle Mercier and Miss Jeanette Quilichini assisted in passing teas to the guests in the dining room.

Picnic Cakes That Are Easy To Carry

By KATHARINE BAKER

Now that the picnic and outdoor eating season is definitely here, homemakers are casting around for ideas for the lunch basket. Sandwiches in endless variety are standard equipment on such occasions and the problem is to transport a beautifully iced cake to the destination. Such cakies are not very good travellers so it is better to decide on un-iced cakes like small cakes. They will weather any kind of packing and turn up fresh.

DATE NUT LOAF

The date nut loaf is a particularly good bet for outdoor meals, especially when sliced and put together like sandwiches with cream cheese filling. Date nut loaf calls for 3 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ cup brown sugar firmly packed, ½ cup chopped walnut meats, 1 cup finely cut dates, 1 egg well beaten, 1 cup milk, and 2 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Add sugar and mix well; then add nuts and dates. Combine milk and shortening; add to flour mixture and blend. Bake in greased loaf pan, 8x4x2 inches, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour, or until done. Store overnight before slicing.

APPLE SAUCE CAKE

Another good picnic cake is apple sauce cake, which calls for 1¾ cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg well beaten, 1 cup raisins finely cut and floured, 1 cup nut meats, chopped and ¾ cup hot thick apple sauce, strained.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, salt and spices, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg, raisins and nuts. Add flour mixture, alternately with apple sauce, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in greased loaf pan, 7x3x3 inches, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 hour.

Miss Norma Cox is in Banff, attending the golf tournament.

Pictures Flown By Trans-Atlantic Airlines Give Contrasting Views of the Fall Fashion Scene

This modish contrast of light and dark is seen in this Vera Borea frock. The pale beige wool has cocoa brown accents at belt and pockets which match a flaring brown redingote under which the dress is worn.

AS new and modern as the trans-Atlantic mail service are these fashion plates for fall and winter wear. To remember this fall is contrast—contrast of materials and in the use of color. Models at the left and right show how effective this new emphasis on contrast may be. Definitely 1940 is this towering topper of black velvet, above. Note new drop effect at back. Maubousin uses the dainty filigree jewelled clips to relieve the severity of this winter afternoon frock's neckline.

Black accessories, including velvet toque antelope gloves and bag, plus the astrakhan collar and coat trimming make a lively contrast on this light colored Paquin town suit of matic wool.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from Merrick Drug Stores, or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Debunker

Doctors who have spent their lives working with lepers say that nobody knows just how that strange disease is carried from one person to another. If it is contagious at all, it is not highly so, for there are cases of man and wife living together for years and bearing children, with no indication that the disease is contagious. One may be a leper and the other not. Leper women marry healthy men, and the man seldom contracts the disease. Children, however, are usually taken from leper mothers soon after birth as a precaution.

According To Culbertson

The informal and unofficial polls that have been taken in connection with proposed changes in the laws (notably the one to make all suits equal in scoring value) have revealed that the majority of bridge players are well content with the status quo. Since the various law making committees involved are primarily interested in the wishes of the public at large, they have decided to drop the proposal and leave the present scoring exactly "as is." Thus we all will go right along hoping that the fickle goddess favors us with the major suits.

On the whole I feel that this decision is well founded. After all, contract is far too democratic a game to be under totalitarian rule; it is what the majority of players want that must be the determining factor.

It goes without saying that bridge "systems" are built around the official laws of scoring. Hence, now there will be no need for changes in the Culbertson system. This will come as welcome news to a great many present and prospective players who can proceed on the theory that what they learn today will be completely applicable for a long time to come.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 Spade	Pass	2 Spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

It will be observed that East-West could have made a game in hearts on this hand, but that they did not even enter the auction. On the surface this looks like pretty bad bridge, but viewing East's and West's hands separately, it is unfair to take such harsh judgment. Certainly West had nothing approaching a vulnerable overcall of one spade. East's problem over the two spades was much "tougher." He might have stretched slightly to put in a take-out double. He had three honor tricks with fair support for the "other major suit," and by that measure a take-out double was desirable. As against that, however, the double might have a catastrophic result: West might have to respond at the three level with diamonds, and if he had a weak five card suit, the slaughter might be terrible. Thus a double on East's part was definitely dangerous and his unwillingness to take the gamble cannot be fairly criticized.

At any rate East-West redeemed themselves, at least partly, by putting up an excellent defense against the two spade contract. West opened the heart queen. Dummy covered and East won. Now, after considerable thought, East found the only plan that had a reasonable chance to defeat the contract. He led a low club. West won with the king, cashed the heart jack, then returned his remaining club. East cashed the ace and queen and led a fourth round. This proved the crucial play. Just as East had hoped, West had the spade ten with which to force dummy's spade king, and now East had an impregnable trump trick.

Obviously if East, instead of under-leading the club honors, had laid down the ace and a low club, he could not have regained the lead for the play of a fourth round and hence could not have built up a trump trick for himself.

Clever Co-eds Have Own Beauty Secrets

By ALICIA HART

In addition to creams for cleaning her skin and keeping it soft, smooth and unlined through the years, the smart young college girl takes back to school with her several items to simplify grooming routines.

For instance, she chooses a really utilitarian manicure kit, containing essentials—only essentials. It's filled with a double supply of emery boards and cotton-tipped orange sticks rather than an extra bottle of polish in a shade she doesn't particularly like and only a couple of emery boards.

There's a cuticle oil in her manicure kit. And she uses this at least a couple of times a week. She always buffs her nails before applying liquid polish. She doesn't cut corners or file them too closely. To remove dead skin at base of nails she uses cuticle remover and an orange stick.

Lipstick is her favorite cosmetic. In fact, she is practically a collector of lipsticks. She buys the very best powder she can afford, uses rouge every day, of course, but uses it sparingly. She often wears mascara and sometimes a touch of eyeshadow for formal dances, but never to classes or daytime functions.

SIMPLE ROUTINE IS NECESSARY

Included and given importance in her beauty budget are mouth wash and dental floss, as well as a dentifrice and a couple of tooth brushes. Also an antiperspirant, which she uses exactly according to directions.

In other words, while the average college girl doesn't want and doesn't need to go in for complicated beauty routines, she does like and employ a few simple ones.

She's determined to preserve present youthful appearance and, at the end of four years, to have mastered the art of being smartly groomed day in and day out.

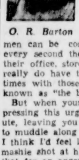

Raising A Family -

Dear Mrs. Golf:

You're right about your husband being selfish when he does not give any more time to his children than he does.

There is much talk of golf widows, but we never hear of golf orphans, do we? Yet there are literally thousands of them. Their daddies play from five to seven, or as long a day light lasts, every evening, and every off hour on Saturday and Sunday.

O. R. Barton

I am not one to think that all men can be completely domestic every second they are away from their office, store or mill. They really do have to get out sometimes with those strange creatures known as "the boys".

But when your man gets to expressing this urge every free minute, leaving you and the children to muddle along the best you can, I think I'd feel like taking a good manful shot at him, saying "How's that for an approach?"

I suppose you get the usual excuse about working all week and needing some fun, and providing all the funds for household expenses. I used to get it, too. I got mad, picked up some golf clubs, and said to the children, "Come on. We're going, too."

Boys need very desperately to have people to hold on to, their fathers as well as their mothers. I don't mean that they should be too dependent. They must have, however, that feeling of surety, of meaning something to the family.

WALKS TOGETHER WOULD HELP

If your husband and son could only take walks together, even though each thinks his own thoughts and they don't get really chummy, it would set the boy up no end.

Tell your husband that his son is more fun than making a hole in one.

Yours sincerely,
OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Maj. McLean Dies

BELOEIL, Que., Aug. 22—Major Norman Burford McLean, 68, chief engineer of the St. Lawrence river channel of the department of transport, died Sunday at his home here, 39 miles east of Montreal.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—A man has been coming to see me for years, with never a word about marriage, but with many words about the joys of free love. I am a school teacher nearing my fifties, with a very good salary and a tidy little nest egg laid up. Now that teachers are allowed to retain their teaching jobs after marriage he has suddenly made up his mind to propose to me, with the understanding that I will go on teaching after marriage. It smells to me like convenience to him. I like him, but I like security better. If he had really loved me, wouldn't he have asked me to marry him before, when I would not have been able to be a wage earner?

LONESOME, BUT WARY FORTY.

Answer: You do well to be wary of this man who never discovered that he loved you or developed any enthusiasm for marriage until he found out what a good meal ticket you are, for he bedes you no good.

If he really loves you he would not have waited to pop the question until he was assured of your having sole hold on to your job. He would have been glad that you automatically gave up teaching when you married, and that he could take care of you and save you from the grinding labor and nerve strain of that most arduous of all professions.

Of course, there have always been fortune hunters, men who married rich girls for their money and who thereafter engaged in no more strenuous occupation than wheedling checks out of their wives. But heretofore the number of these domestic panhandlers has been small, most American men preferring to get their living by work instead of by selling themselves.

Now, however, since women have gone into business and have become money earners we seem to be developing a breed of male parasites who are so incredibly cheap and low that they make the old-time fortune hunter seem almost like a dignified and self-respecting human being. These are the men who marry women for their pay envelopes and with the deliberate purpose of getting wives to support them.

Possibly it may be no worse for a man to take money from a shop girl, whose every dollar is wet with her very life blood, than it is to take it from a rich girl who has inherited her millions, but it seems so.

That it is becoming very common for men to marry not for love but for a living is not to be doubted. Every day I get letters from wives who tell me their husbands have forced them to go out and get jobs as soon as they are married; from wives whose husbands refuse to let them give up their positions even when they are sick; from wives whose husbands have never done a lick of work since they were married; from wives whose husbands make them pay all of the household bills out of their salaries; from wives whose husbands take all of the money they earn away from them and spend it on drink or "other women."

It is a shock for sentimental women who think that they are marrying for love alone, and who dream of getting a strong arm upon which to lean in a husband, to find out that they are being married for their earning capacity and that they have to do the supporting instead of being supported. But such, unhappily, is the modern setup, and every girl who has a good, steady job does well to keep a weather eye on her suitors and try to get a line on their intentions.

DOROTHY DIX.

What To Do

The other evening my husband and I attended a dinner at a friend's home. We were all seated and the first course had been served when a guest arrived whose train was late. The hostess brought her into the dining room and introduced her all around. My husband and I and several other guests seemed puzzled as to whether they should rise to greet the late-comer or keep our seats. What is the proper thing to do in a like circumstance? And should the new guest be served with the first course or go right on with the menu as it was being served to the others at the table? MRS. P. S. R.

Answer—Unless the new guest was much older than yourselves, the women would keep their seats, acknowledging the introduction cordially with smiles and a few words, but the men at the table should, of course, rise and remain standing until the guest and the hostess were seated. Naturally, the men would assist the guest and the hostess to their chairs just as they would in a restaurant. To avoid confusion the late guest would be served with the dish then being passed to those already at the table.

QUOTAS CRUDE OIL WELLS ARE CUT SHARPLY

CALGARY, Aug. 22. — While maintaining the total allowable crude oil production of Turner Valley at 22,000 barrels daily, the Conservation Board, today, sharply reduced the quotas of individual producers to make room for wells recently completed.

The board order of July 29 set the daily allowable at 22,000 barrels. Under this schedule 81 valley crude producers were listed.

Immediately effective, the new order of the board divides the 22,000-barrel allowable among 85 producers, four new wells having been placed on production since July 29.

The new order reduced the average daily allowable production of individual wells from 272 to 259 barrels daily.

New wells given quotas are Royalite 41 with 427 barrels daily; Calwin 150; Royalite 39 with 200; and Royalite 40 with 200.

Slightly Warmer Temperature Now Weather Outlook

Weather in Edmonton was not so warm Monday as chill breezes waged a winning battle with the sun to keep the temperature down. Highest the thermometer fluid rose to was a modest 71 above.

Fair and warm weather is forecast for the city and district Tuesday, "Fair Tuesday and Wednesday and becoming a little warmer," read the official forecast for the province.

Temperatures skidded during the night to touch a minimum recording of 37 above at 5 a.m. Tuesday.

Near northern weather was reported as being generally clear and calm, while temperatures in the area ranged from 46 to 68 above at 8:30 a.m.

U. S. Aircraft Industry Booming; Employment In Shipyards Mounting

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—The United States aircraft industry is booming and employment in shipyards and arsenals is mounting as a result of the largest army and navy and foreign orders since the Great War.

Aircraft and engine plants have unfilled orders aggregating more than $300,000,000. Their total sales last year were only about $68,000,000.

EMPLOYMENT RISES

Labor department figures show employment rising sharply in the industry as a result of heavy orders for warplanes from the American army and navy and from France, in particular, among foreign buyers. Wage earners in plane manufacturing plants alone increased from 24,739 in January to 35,935 at the end of June.

Expanding navy yards are preparing to add 13,000 civilian employees by Jan. 1 to the 62,000 already at work. With more than 100 warships and auxiliaries on the way or ordered, the number of workers already has risen from 36,000 at the start of 1938 toward an estimated peak of 100,000 at the end of 1941.

Commercial shipyards have expanded their forces to nearly 50,000 and within two years naval experts expect possibly 200,000 men to be employed in building or repairing warcraft at all establishments.

Some 14,000 are turning out guns and other material at the army's manufacturing arsenals, a gain of 4,000 within a year.

Approximately $150,000,000 in contracts for new tanks, guns and other weapons and materials to be let this fall by the army ordnance department may provide jobs for several times this many workers. Private industry will do three-fourths of the work, officials said.

RECORD TOTAL

Licenses to export munitions were issued to a record total of $112,026,044 up to Aug. 1, and more than half the shipments remain to be made. France alone ordered warplanes and other arms in the first seven months of the year costing $71,667,460.

The United States army and navy together are spending within a year an unprecedented peacetime aggregate of nearly $1,000,000,000 on guns, tanks, barracks and ships—exclusive of normal operating expenses. Most of the outlay remains to be made, although army orders for planes and engines alone have totalled $192,000,000 in less than four months.

Broomhall

Liverpool is due to open a penny higher today to keep up with advance in Winnipeg December yesterday. England bought a million bushels Canadian wheat during session yesterday; several Churchill cargoes. It was rumored that exporters took half a million bushels U.S. wheat to cover old speculative sales and the government allowed a subsidy of 36 cents. No new business could be traced with Europe on this basis. The Argentine wheat board lowered the price to exporters and a fair business was done with the United Kingdom in consequence.

"THERE'S NO SECRET ABOUT WHY IT'S BETTER!" says Mr. Picobac

● "They tell me that Canadian Burley is getting better every year", said Les, adjusting the chair.

"There's no secret about that", declared Mr. Picobac. "It is better. And there's no secret about why it's better. They're producing finer Burley leaf and the pick of this tobacco, matured in the wood to mellow perfection, goes into Picobac. Improved seed . . . improved cultivation . . . improved handling—progress all along the line. There's no secret about it. Picobac's the pick of Canada's Burley crop—that's all. The first pipeful tells the story. You wouldn't want better proof. It was always a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke and it's getting more so all the time."

"It DOES taste good in a pipe!"

To Treasure Island

—By Bulletin Staff Cameraman.

Happiest lad in the Edmonton district Monday was Albert Phieffer, 15, of 8819 124 avenue, winner of the Jimmie Allen Air Races held a week ago Saturday. Prize for winning the races was an all-expense bus trip to the World's Fair at San Francisco. Monday Albert embarked on the journey—the first time he has ever been out of Edmonton. In the above picture he is shown standing on the steps of the bus, receiving his ticket from H. F. Neilsen, president of radio station CFRN., who with the B. A. Oil Limited and the Edmonton Lion's Club, sponsored the contest.

Young Airplane Expert Leaves on Journey For Western World's Fair

Albert Phieffer, who lives at 8819 124 street, is only 15 years of age, but when he does a thing he does it right. A couple of weeks ago he built his first model airplane. A week ago Saturday he entered the plane in the Jimmie Allen Air Races, competed, and won the contests in competition against experienced model plane builders and fliers.

And on Monday he took his first trip out of Edmonton—and before he gets home again he will have covered more than 5,000 miles, stayed at the largest hotels in Seattle, Spokane and San Francisco, see the World's Fair at Treasure Island, and spent 15 exciting days touring the show places of the western United States.

And the trip isn't going to cost Albert a nickel. For it was the first prize he won when his tiny model plane outflew all the others at the air races a week ago. It is an all-expense tour donated by Radio Station CFRN, and his expense money, together with his new travelling clothes were arranged for by the Edmonton Lions' club, cosponsors of the tour with the Radio Station CFRN, and the B. A. Oil company.

Albert was so excited about his trip that he could hardly stop

GOLDIE HILLER, SPEEDY TYPIST IS EASTBOUND

Miss Goldie Hiller, 10158 94 street, selected as Edmonton's fastest typist, left the city Monday evening, via C.N.R., for Toronto, where she will be a member of the Canadian typing team, in the International Typewriting Marathon. City eliminations were sponsored by The Bulletin.

Members of the Canadian and American teams, 12 in each, have a pretty big job before them in the typing, against time, of "Shakespeare's Complete Works." The assignment is rather more difficult than was the typing of "Gone With the Wind," in a previous competition, since the "broken lines" of plays necessitate considerably more use of the shift keys.

Goldie Hiller

Boarding the train, Miss Hiller met and travelled with Mrs. Patricia Joan White, young Vancouver matron, who led all Canadian and American contestants, with an average speed of 116.7 words per minute. Miss Hiller's average was 96.

ONLY MAN ON TEAM

In Winnipeg, they will be met by W. Roy Harrison, the only man on the Canadian team, and by the Calgary and Regina contestants.

All contestants have been supplied with special green labels for their luggage and on arrival in Toronto, will be given their uniforms to be worn during the marathon. Each entrant has received a $5,000 insurance policy against accidents from the time of their departure to their return to their homes.

Thursday, in Toronto, the Canadian team will be met by His Worship Ralph Day, mayor of Toronto, and later will have a get-together luncheon with the American team.

"It will be a grand experience," said Miss Hiller, shortly before the train pulled out, "and I am most grateful to those who have made it possible for me to attend, to The Bulletin, particularly."

GOING TO NEW YORK

While in Toronto, Miss Hiller will be a guest of the King Edward hotel. Later, on an extended holiday, she will visit in New York, guest of her sister, Mrs. C. Tiernan.

"I hope," she added, "that I'll win the competition in Toronto, and be awarded the New York trip, even though I plan on going there in any event."

Independent Progressive Association will hold a nominating convention for the provincial constituency of Edmonton Thursday at 8 p.m. at the I.O.O.F. hall, 10169 103 street. Speakers will be Charles Cockroft, M.L.A., Stettler; A. E. McLellan, M.L.A., Innisfail, and S. A. G. Barnes, M.L.A., Edmonton. The public is invited to attend.

Contract for demolishing the fire-gutted Tivoli building on 102 street has been awarded Joseph Beer, 4 Stanley block, it was learned Tuesday. Razing operations will start immediately. Plans have been laid for the erection of a new structure to replace the old building swept by fire last June.

Surfacing of the two runways at the city airport will be started Wednesday according to an announcement made Tuesday by city officials, who stated that good progress was being made on the installation of drainage pipes. The surfacing will be of asphalt and will be done by the city. Hulbert and Wilson are in charge of the laying of the drainage pipes. Total cost of the program, $60,000, is being borne by the Dominion government.

Boy Swimmer Is Nearly Drowned Due To Cramps

Daren Tourigny, six, 9271 110A street, narrowly escaped drowning when he was seized with cramps when he went swimming in the East End swimming pool too soon after breakfast Tuesday. He was pulled to safety by lifeguards shortly after he collapsed and sank in the water.

Although a pulmotor was called it was not used, the lad having been revived by artificial respiration before it arrived. He was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital, however, and is being kept under observation there for the day, receiving treatment for shock.

EDMONTONIAN LOSES ARM IN NORTH CRASH

Edwin H. Hodgson, 29, Has Limb Amputated in Hospital at Athabasca

Edwin M. Hodgson, 29, of 10034 87 avenue, head packer at Gainers' Ltd., packing plant, is in hospital at Athabasca following a highway accident that resulted in the loss of his left arm. The accident occurred about 9:30 p.m. Monday, three miles south of Athabasca on the Edmonton highway and Hodgson's arm was so badly hurt that a doctor was forced to amputate it immediately.

Mr. Hudgson had left Edmonton for a two weeks' vacation at Baptiste Lake, popular summer resort 10 miles west of Athabasca. He was apparently driving with his left arm partly out of the open window as he passed a truck proceeding in the opposite direction. The box of the truck caught his elbow and smashed it back against the door post and around against the back seat window, which was broken by the impact.

BADLY SMASHED

Rushed to hospital, examination showed that his hand, wrist and elbow were so badly smashed that Doctor E. K. Wright, who attended the injured man, was forced to amputate his arm between the elbow and shoulder. His condition Tuesday morning was reported as a little easier, although he was still suffering from shock and a severe shaking up.

The driver of the truck stated that he felt no jar at the time of the accident, but noticed that something appeared wrong with the car after he had passed so he stopped. The truck was one of the fleet serving Peace River district from High Prairie, was proceeding to Edmonton at the time of the accident. After questioning by Corporal Olsen, R.C.M.P., who is conducting the investigation, the truck was allowed to proceed to Edmonton.

Mr. Hodgson was accompanied by Miss Gertrude Brown of 9641 105A avenue at the time of the accident. Miss Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, were in a second car, travelling just ahead of that driven by Mr. Hodgson, and did not learn of the accident until after reaching Athabasca. Mr. Hodgson had been employed at Gainers' Ltd. for the past eight years.

THE QUESTION

In Victoria, B.C., an "accident free week" campaign was recently sponsored, when a car toured the city, broadcasting traffic rules and regulations to the Victoria citizens.

Miss Nelly Kozak, of 8113 85 avenue, has submitted the question, "Do you think it would be a good plan for lights to warn pedestrians by loud speakers such as are being employed by Victoria in an 'accident free' campaign, this week? Which question rules her one dollar.

THE ANSWERS

REGINALD DOWDELL, lawyer: It would be a good idea to have an accident-free campaign any time at all. There have been too many accidents in the city lately, due either to carelessness or to lack of knowledge of traffic regulations.

EVELYN JONES, clerk: The story goes that Providence takes care of fools and children, but there seem to be a number of people, neither one nor the other, who have to take care of themselves. And a mix of rules, as to how to avoid accidents, would, I think, not be amiss.

MARIAN CONROY, librarian: Loud speakers for the benefits of pedestrians might have the advantages, but why limit it to that? The motorists, bicyclists, motorcyclists and roller skaters are not any less deserving of advice on the score of causes and preventions of accidents.

HELEN KIRKLAND: I think that accident-free campaigns should be started at least once a year. Persons get a little rusty on traffic rules and regulations, and a little carefree in their manoeuvres. We've had rather a lot of accidents lately.

City engineer's department has reported to city commissioners that approximately $126,000 was spent on construction work by the city up to the end of July. Main items listed by the department was $39,213 for paving; road alignment, $14,320; minor sewer construction $9,478; concrete curbing, $7,302; concrete walks $4,368; bituminous walks, $5,646; trolley bus construction, $6,084.

Bears Invading Settlement, Tag Autoist, Scare Women; One Tangles With Polecat

Farmers Alarmed As Beasts Move Out From Mountains — Indians Offer Their Explanations.

By G. A. SCHIERHOLTZ
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Aug. 22. — Bears are thicker here this year than the oldest settler can remember them. Some of the Indians claim that a poor winter in the mountains drove them into the settlement. Other Indians say that bears have not been killed off by hunters in the last few years as other wild animals have, and now they are so numerous that they just naturally wander out towards civilization.

The white man offers no reason, he is just annoyed because he is never sure when he goes out that he won't meet a bear. Animal lovers claim that the bear is more scared of humans than human beings are of him, but most of us don't care to meet Mr. Bruin just the same.

Perhaps it is just as well that the wild berry crop is almost a failure this year, for that is where you are very likely to meet a bear. One lady from town went out looking for raspberries at Connor's old mill site this week. She didn't find any berries, but she did meet a black bear, who was evidently looking for fruit, too. The lady screamed in her fright, and the bear disappeared. So did she, as soon as she could move.

JUST PAYING CALL

Mrs. John Rosedale, fifteen miles south in a settled community, was alone at home with her three children this week when she heard the dog barking. Thinking some of the cattle were out of the pasture, she went out, only to meet a big black bear at her front gate. She raced back to the house and called the dog, who appeared to be as frightened as she was. He refused to go out and chase the bear. Mrs. Rosedale did not leave the house again until the next day, when her husband returned.

The experiench of one traveller has amused his friends hugely, but it is no joke to him. He was about twenty miles south of town when he ran out of gasoline. So he took the can that he always carries for just such emergencies and set off on foot. He knew there was a farmer with a car about two miles away. He hadn't gone far when he heard something and turned—to see a big black bear at his heels.

His first impulse was to make a run for it, but he remembered that above all things, you must not

John Fothergill, Former Citizen Dies At Coast

Word has been received in the city of the death of John Fothergill, 76, of Vancouver, on Sunday. A former resident of Edmonton, Mr. Fothergill had resided in Vancouver for the past eight years, and had recently sold his home to return again to Edmonton, when he was suddenly stricken with a heart attack, which proved fatal.

Born in Huron County, Ontario, in 1863, he had helped in the building of the railway in western Canada, being an employee of the C.N.R. Bridge and building department for 31 years prior to his retirement. Mr. Fothergill is survived by his wife and one son John George in Edmonton.

The remains are being sent to Edmonton for interment on Wednesday. Howard and McBride are in charge of funeral arrangements.

City War Vets To Attend Meet In Coast City

Many Great War veterans from this city are contemplating visiting Vancouver from Sept. 2 to 5 to attend a reunion of the 31st Alberta Battalion of the Sixth Canadian Infantry Brigade, the first such gathering to be held since cessation of hostilities.

American Legion detachments from Bellingham, Blaine and Seattle, Wash., will also attend the meeting, bringing their bands with them.

The reunion's opening day ceremonies will include a service at the Cenotaph in which various Vancouver detachments will take part.

Other former members of the 31st Bn. are expected to attend from Calgary and other points.

International Officer of Boy Scouts Becomes Eagle Chief Of Indians

SYLVAN LAKE, Aug. 22.—By the light of the dancing flames of a giant camp fire, surrounded by 300 Boy Scouts attending Alberta's first Scout Jamboree, Sir Percy Everett, deputy commissioner of the International Boy Scouts, was made Eagle Chief of the Crees. Chief Sampson of the Hobbema reserve officiated.

Through The Mill

The roughly dressed young man in the prisoner's dock looked dazed and frightened. He licked his lips nervously, shifted his weight from one foot to the other, looked dazed and closed his mouth as though he were trying to say something and his voice just wouldn't work. But nobody was paying much attention to him.

The clerk of the court stood up, advised the young man that he could be tried immediately by the magistrate or wait and be tried this fall in supreme court. The young man said he preferred to be tried immediately. Then the clerk read the charge which stated that the young man had stolen an automobile. He was asked whether he pleaded guilty or not guilty and he said guilty.

Up to this point everything had been going just as it was supposed to. But apparently the young man had regained his voice, for before anybody could get any further, he piped up and announced, "Say, I got this all fixed up with the owner of the car. I saw him Sunday and he agreed not to lay a charge against me."

The magistrate, the crown prosecutor, the clerk of the court, the court orderly, the reporters, police officers, spectators and all look at the young man in surprise.

"Sure," replied the young man, "he agreed not to lay a charge. He's here in court right now, too, sitting right back there in the audience." He pointed. Back in the audience a man climbed to his feet and looked back sheepishly at the crown prosecutor, the magistrate, the prisoner, the reporters, the audience, and all the others who were looking at him in wonder.

"What's all this?" asked the magistrate.

"I don't know, sir, it is the first I heard of this," replied the crown prosecutor.

"Well, he has just pleaded guilty to the charge, and it is a serious one—the minimum is one year in jail," pointed out the magistrate.

"Yes, sir," replied the prosecutor. "Maybe we ought to adjourn this a day until we look into the matter." Then, addressing himself to the prisoner, he asked, "Have you got a lawyer?" The young man had apparently lost his voice again because he just shook his head that means no.

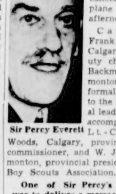

"All right, adjourned until tomorrow," said the cadi.

Next person up was a young truck driver who pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to keep to the right of the white line while turning into the Fort Trail from 115 avenue recently. He was fined $5 and costs. Another motorist pleaded guilty to not having a driver's license and paid $2 with $3.25 costs.

Motor trucks haul only 3 per cent of the nation's commerce, while 96 per cent travels over the rails, the remainder carried by waterways and pipelines.

Sir Percy Everett

Sir Percy arrived at the camp by plane and was welcomed by Scouts, transformed by red ochre and turkey feathers into Indian braves, who paddled their canoes out to the plane during the afternoon.

Camp chief Frank Foulds of Calgary and deputy chief Wilfrid Backman of Edmonton extended formal greetings to the international leader, who was accompanied by Lieut.-Col. J. H. Woods, Calgary, provincial Scout commissioner, and W. J. Dick, Edmonton, provincial president of the Boy Scouts Association.

One of Sir Percy's first acts was to deliver a message for Lord Robert Baden-Powell, chief scout of the world, that "Canadian boys were doing a splendid service to the Dominion."

Sir Percy, who is reviewing scouts in various centres across Canada, arrived at Calgary last night from Vancouver, where while in the Foothills city he told members of a service club that "what we want in the movement are more

After looking the site over carefully he seemed pleased with the appearance of the base, and expressed his willingness to see what aid he could to develop it. As he left the city his private plane circled out over the base so that he could get a last look at it from the air.

CHIEF JUSTICE OPENS FLOWER SHOW TONIGHT

Edmonton Horticultural Society Holds 31st Exhibition Here

Thirty-first annual Edmonton flower show, sponsored by the Edmonton Horticultural society, will open at 8:30 tonight in the spacious Riverview pavilion, immediately facing the north approach of the High Level bridge.

The three-day floral display will be officially opened by Chief Justice Horace Harvey of the Alberta appeal court, honorary president of the society.

Despite near-drought conditions of the past few weeks, this year's entries are expected to be of surprisingly high quality, officials state. It is anticipated that the show will compare favorably with those of other years.

Special feature of the display will be a large entry of exhibits from the Brooks irrigation belt which will enable local flower lovers to see what progress has been made in flower cultivation in that once arid region.

All arrangements for handling the throngs of spectators expected to witness the display have been completed by show executives under the direction of W. J. Cardy, president of the Edmonton society and the opening tonight promises to be highly successful.

Counsel States Provincial Government Under Misapprehension

That the position of mortgage and loan companis in regard to their activities in this province under the National Housing act is apparently misunderstood by the provincial government was stated on Monday by R. D. Tighe, K.C., acting for the Mortgage and Loan Association in Alberta.

"My attention has been drawn to a statement made by Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer, at a meeting in Calgary to a committee of citizens in connection with loans under the Dominion Housing act," said Mr. Tighe in a written statement.

"Mr. Low was reported in the press of the 17th of August as stating: 'During our discussion with the Edmonton representatives of the companies, R. D. Tighe and W. W. Evans, we were told that the companies would not be interested in making money available for home building under the federal act unless the government was prepared to repeal all existing legislation.'

UNDER MISAPPREHENSION

"The provincial treasurer is under a misapprehension as to the effect of the conversations in question. The position of the main lending institutions was outlined by me in a statement I gave to the press so long ago as the 12th of April.

"After pointing out that originally only debts incurred prior to July, 1932, were protected by debt legislation, and that the period was extended in 1937 to July, 1938, the statement went on to say: 'If loans were now made, what assurance is there that in the future the date would not again be extended or further confiscatory legislation passed? If private lenders will not risk their own money in mortgages in this province, how can lending institutions be expected to do so with their trust funds, which represent the savings of large numbers of Canadians, many of them resident in Alberta?'

"Confidence is essential to the inflow of capital which is so necessary to development and confidence can be restored only by a review of existing legislation while preserving reasonable protection for deserving debtors.'

"From this statement it is evident that the position of the companies in question was then, and now is, that confidence must be restored by the adoption of a reasonable attitude towards the whole question, and not that all debt legislation should be repealed, but only that it should be reviewed, retaining reasonable protection for deserving debtors."

Your Health — By Dr. Frank McCoy

When a rupture has not progressed too far, there is sometimes a possibility of correcting it through developing a stronger abdominal muscles and through reducing the internal pressure.

As soon as the lump shows itself, it is wise for the patient immediately to secure a good rupture support and to wear it constantly until he is assured by his physician that a complete cure has been established.

The next thing to do is to start developing the abdominal muscles through taking a special series of exercises. All of those which are taken while lying on the back will be helpful. These must be taken very carefully at first and used at least twice daily. Only the easier exercises should be undertaken at first, and as strength increases, the harder ones may be added. A truss must be worn while doing the exercises.

At the same time, the patient should employ all measures possible to produce as flat an abdomen as possible. The quantity of food must be kept to the minimum of the body's requirements. All foods which are especially gas-forming should be avoided.

It is a good plan to take at least one enema each day, and if possible two daily enemas should be used, employing a quart of plain warm water each time. The enema is taken in the knee-chest position and the rupture support should be worn at the same time. The enema may be continued for several days or weeks, if necessary.

Walks should be taken each day to increase the general strength and to produce a better tone of the muscles all over the body. The patient should have his doctor examine him at frequent intervals to check the improvement being secured.

When this regimen is started soon enough and followed persistently, it is often possible to bring about results satisfactory in every way in closing the rupture.

However, in the severe cases where it is apparent that the simpler measures will not bring success, I suggest the patient investigate the new method of treating rupture by injection, which method is now being used in selected cases. The purpose of the injection is to strengthen the weakened area by causing the formation of a certain kind of tough fibrous tissue. In this way the body may be forced to provide a support of its own.

In those cases where the injections are inadvisable, if I reasoning to the patient to learn that the improved operative techniques of today make it possible to correct rupture through surgery. In severe cases, I suggest that the patient talk his case over frankly with his doctor and secure the doctor's advice as to which method of treatment is most desirable.

My two articles on Rupture are available in those wishing more information. You may secure them by writing to me, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

New Weather Instrument Can Measure Temperature Of Water Drops Mile Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 — A new weather instrument so delicate it can measure the temperature of drops of water a mile above the earth is announced by the American Meteorological Society.

It's all done with mirrors, explained Dr. C. H. Heck of North Carolina State College, who did the original research.

By concentrating the light of the sky on a "cascade" of mirrors, he said, it is possible to detect changes of as much as 35 degrees Fahrenheit in the upper atmosphere and to use such changes in predicting weather for the following 24 hours.

GROUP OF MIRRORS

The instrument used is essentially a group of mirrors which successively concentrate light onto smaller and smaller surfaces until the total light falling on the largest one is focused on a thermocouple, an instrument which can record that changes in thousandths of a degree. Even a tiny change in the amount of light reflected through the series of mirrors will register on the thermocouple and be detectable on a meter.

Dr. Heck said that any changes in the amount of moisture in the upper atmosphere, even to increases and decreases in the size of drops of completely invisible clouds, cause changes in the amount of light reaching the earth. Thus, by measuring the amount of light it is possible to tell the nature of the air overhead and to determine the upper air temperature.

The instrument is so sensitive, Dr. Heck said, that it can be used as well at night as during the day-

BANFF SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS IS PATRONIZED

New Theatre Hall Will Be Erected, Dr. Kerr Says

Attendance at the Banff School of Fine Arts this year showed "a happy improvement" over last season's figures, Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, president of the University of Alberta, said Monday on returning from Banff where he inspected the school.

Dr. Kerr said all preparatory arrangements had been made for the erection of the new theatre hall which in future will house the activities of the school.

Operations for the erection of the new hall, he said, may be begun before the end of this month.

Constructed in the famous Banff resort, with attractive facades, the building, Dr. Kerr said, is situated on the main street on a plot of ground owned by the federal government, between the Presbyterian church and the fire hall.

The president recalled the "generosity of Sir Edward Beatty, president of the C.P.R. and chancellor of McGill University, which had enabled the University of Alberta to contribute the sum of $2,500 to equip the stage "in an especially good way with every convenience for the drama work of the school and also for amateur productions in winter."

Dr. Kerr said he had also had a "preliminary personal conference" with Murray Gibbon of the C.P.R., and the manager of Banff Springs hotel, as to the possibility of putting on pastoral plays and pageants in the summer, under the supervision of the extension department of the university, and the Banff School of Fine Arts, and open to the public.

He said students at the school represented every part of Canada except the Maritimes, and there were some also from the United States.

Expressing his satisfaction at the results being obtained, President Kerr praised the enthusiasm and ability of the teaching staff.

Boy Punished By Being Forced To Kneel In Gravel

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 22—Evidence that an 11-year-old boy was punished by being made to kneel in gravel while holding a 10-pound log over his head, was given in court here Monday as Annie Newman was convicted of assaulting the boy, Bourstall Shemley.

Miss Newman, housekeeper for the boy's father, Mike Shemley, of Garson, was fined $10 and costs. Charges against Mike Shemley and Miss Newman of "inflicting unreasonable cruelty" on the boy were dismissed.

CITY WELCOME TO MAJESTIES SAID GREATEST

Edmonton's Greeting Stated Most Spectacular in Canada

Praise which has been showered on Edmonton for the magnificent welcome given Their Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, here on the occasion of the Royal visit on June 2, reached a new high in an official press release by C. W. Gilchrist, who was press representative for the CBC during the tour.

In his recent review of the tour he devotes more than twice as much space to Edmonton's welcome for Their Majesties than that devoted to any other city. Calgary's reception won a scant line, "Calgary and its colorful Indian village," while Vancouver was named as the place "Where Their Majesties first glimpsed the blue Pacific." Edmonton's reception, on the other hand, was declared by Mr. Gilchrist to be "the most spontaneous and spectacular in all Canada."

Following is a portion of Mr. Gilchrist's description of the welcome given the Royal Couple by Edmonton:

"It was Edmonton, gateway to the north that presided the most spontaneous, most spectacular welcome to the King and Queen, here assembled from all the towns of the prairies and from the settlements of the north country they came, thousands upon thousands of people, 'new Canadians' and old.

"They packed the two miles of grandstands along both sides of Portage avenue, now Kingsway, and that night they massed in front of the Macdonald hotel. For hours they stood there and sang followed song.

"Their Majesties appeared on the balcony in late evening and the roar that went up made the cheers before sound like whispers. It must have rolled across the prairies for miles and made the old hotel tremble.

"When the King and Queen left, 100,000 voices sang 'God Save the King' as it had never been sung like that before and probably never will again."

Police Reporter, As Playwright Astounds London

By GUYS RHOADES

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MALVERN, Eng., Aug. 22—Emulgence of a former London, Ont., police reporter as a successful playwright, has given Britain's theatrical world its chief sensation of the summer.

It took 31-year-old Alexander Knox, one-time handy man on the old London Advertiser, to pull the Malvern festival out of a rut that had the critics growling or sleeping in their seats. Knox, son of a Presbyterian minister and descendant of the illustrious John Knox, shared festival honors with George Bernard Shaw, but his play went on first and woke the critics up to a state of praise—praise mixed with some objection.

Low Level Bridge Board Walk Now Nearly Finished

Weather permitting, the last concrete will be poured on the traffic deck of the bridge Tuesday evening and the deck will then have to be "cured" before opened to traffic on September 1.

Londoners Breathe War Atmosphere

British Capital An Armed Camp

By MILTON BRONNER

Bulletin Foreign Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 22—If there is any truth in those rumors that the British government stands ready to "appease" Germany still more the London man-in-the-street hasn't been aware of it.

For all he can see, John Bull hasn't relaxed his war preparedness activities one whit. "He reads" is still the slogan of the day.

For every time John Londoner passes barracks—and there are plenty of them in this metropolis—he sees hundreds of young men hard at work drilling.

Some of them are volunteers for the Territorial regiments—corresponding to the American state militias. Still others are the conscripted youths who are being trained for the militia.

Jack Londoner may have a house or a flat overlooking a big private garden or a public park or a wide open space forever dedicated to the public and so commonly known simply as a "common."

Any morning he is apt to wake up, look out of his window and see a column of soldiers marching past, some very strange flowers accompanying them. The strangest ones are the tall, slim, anti-aircraft guns.

Or John Londoner, mindful of the next day's work, may try to fall asleep by eleven at night. But just when he is climbing into bed, pajamas, he may hear the roar of a bomber plane overhead. Looking suddenly will see passing across the out he will see another one pass. Or if curious, he can go to the nearest park and see hundreds of anti-aircraft guns being secretly positioned.

"... British bombers, cruising over London in almost perfect silence."

For all every Londoner knows, he may be the next night's bombing victim. Or he may be awakened by the sound of falling shells or shell fragments.

The chances are that Jack Londoner will be sound asleep when the first bombs fall. He is not only building very swift fighter planes for the defense of Britain, but formidable bombers, designed to carry the war to the enemy as soon as need arises.

Germany has moved some of its war industrial plants far into the interior, and partly underground. But the Ruhr area is still the seat of the great Krupp works and of many of the most vital steel plants. Government has anti-aircraft precautions, doubtless been taken in the air defense of Britain, but formidable bombers, with a good load of bombs, can get through in spite of them, and dropped their pills they would do some vital damage to vital plants.

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

Night Technique

The Nut Box

Can't Be So!

TO the majority of Edmontonians this business of playing football at night under floodlights at Clarke Stadium is a brand new business. But you can take my word for it that it's even better than daylight football to watch. If you don't put much faith in my word, you can check with such authorities as Dick Jones, Pep Moon, Art Carlson, Cy Burchell, Lindsay Carver, Howard Desy and Frank Drayton to name only a few of the several hundred fans who were on hand last night to see the lights turned on for the first time.

There is a bit of technique required to get the most out of night football. To begin with you should get yourself a party of kindred spirits and arm yourself with season tickets, so the gang will always be together. Then you bring along lap robes and a fall overcoat. You can get by without either, but you'll be a lot more comfortable with them—especially the gals. A hot drink at critical times is also advised. If you feel that coffee will fill the bill, you'll be able to get it from boys cruising around the stands. Following the game, the gang adjourns to somebody's house to fight the battle all over again and polish off the night.

If you detect a sort of pathetic note in the above paragraph, just shed a tear for the sport writers who never have a chance to get that sort of enjoyment out of a game. From the first whistle to the final one, the rang up in the press box is in a bedlam. We're trying our durndest to write it play by play. We keep one eye roving from the scoreboard to the grid and the other one is checking the numbers on the program for names of the men in that play and watching the paper on which we're scribbling like a mad stock broker.

Just a Nice, Quiet Mad House

ONE ear is cocked to see how the loudspeaker broadcaster saw the play. The other one is vainly trying to sort out the question that the scribe next to you is yelling. Invariably there is an argument as to exactly who did the blocking on a particular play, who got sucked in, who fell on the fumble and so on. At the same time your working partner is keeping the statistics chart and bawling at you the yards that O'Brien made, the distance Fritz fired a pass or the number of guys Gelehaye managed to sit on at one time.

All this keeps pouring in on your brain and you have to sort it out and set it down in the fewest possible number of words. You've got to do it fast and right the first time, for the players won't do it over again for you. If you happen to be wrong, and your readers know better—well they just consider it further evidence of the dumbness they have always credited you with.

When it's all over you're more of a limp rag than a man. You've got writer's cramp, your ears are ringing and your brain feels like you've just worked 24 hours straight. But the night is only starting for you. You've got to scram to the office, sort out your running notes, check them against the statistics chart and it against the notes. Then you've got to cut your story to fit the amount of space that happens to be available—decide on the highlights, the heroes, the goats. Then write it. Then you do your usual night's work.

Is it any wonder that sport writers have to restrain an impulse to commit murder when some guy comes up and cracks: "Pretty soft for you guys. All you have to do is enjoy yourselves at games—and get paid for doing it!"

Wurra, wurra! I'm going to scalp me one of those wise-crackers for sure.

Olympic Trip Up In Air

EUROPEAN tension has more or less left the question of Canada's participation in Olympic hockey up in the air, according to reports from Toronto where the moguls of the C.A.H.A. are now gathered. The catch is that the 1940 Winter Olympics will be in Germany—if there are any Olympics—and the hockey heads are a little doubtful if public opinion will permit sending a team to Germany at present.

Port Arthur Bearcats are being offered a chance to tour Europe this winter, but the Olympics have not been mentioned. The C.A.H.A. is prepared to give the Bearcats $5,000. The rest the club can make up from gate receipts on its tour. Trail went overseas without any grant, paid the players $20 a week each and came back with $1,000 profit.

Personally I think the C.A.H.A. should only guarantee the Bearcats against a deficit up to $5,000. Why should such a melon be tossed to Port Arthur when Trail didn't get a similar one? A few games for Olympic honors are hardly justification for five thousand dollars.

I am of course amazed that European tension is growing by leaps and bounds. Didn't we send a flock of athletes over there in 1926 to shed the oil of friendship and international goodwill so that everyone would love everybody else? How can Poland and Germany possibly face each other with fixed bayonets when only three years ago their athletes compete together in the idyllic Olympiad? Passing peculiar, terous. It can't be so for all our amateur chieftains assured us that the Olympics were a great and glorious movement that would make men throw their automatic rifles away and grab vaulting poles to vie with each other in friendly competition.

Although not as big nor as heavy as most linemen in the Western Canada Football Conference, Jack Laplante has been demonstrating in workouts this year that he has all the necessary determination and fight to be of real value to the Eskimos in the campaign which opens here against Regina Roughriders Friday night.

Although having been out of football for some years, Laplante showed up at the Eskimos' camp this season in great shape and put up a real battle for one of the guard positions. He previously played with the Eskimos in the Alberta Rugby Football union in 1932.

Born in Fort Arthur, Ont., on Feb 3, 1912, Laplante now weighs 195 pounds and stands five feet, nine inches.

Touring British School Cricketers Defeat Manitoba

WINNIPEG, Aug. 22.—The touring British public school boys cricket team defeated the Manitoba representative team by 135 runs to 99 at Assiniboine Park Monday. Manitoba batted first, and found it difficult to cope with the visitors' deadly bowling.

Only four Manitobans got double figures in runs. Cliff Bamlett posted a 28 for the locals, Malcolm Gain made 17, while Ronnie Turnbull and Stan Jones each had a 10.

W. H. White, the visiting captain, bowled five Canadian wickets for 21 runs.

The Britishers passed the Manitoba total score with the loss of four wickets. A. J. Wilkerton of the Leys school, batted an impressive 65, showing a variety of strokes. R. Nesbitt, Oundle school had 16 runs to his credit, and S. Rogers, Highgate schools, had 12.

Quist, Bromwich Capture U.S. Doubles Crown

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 22.—Two Australian youngsters, Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, gave the United States and Yugoslavia Davis cup forces a severe headache Monday when they stormed to the United States doubles tennis crown at Longwood Cricket Club with a sparkling 8-6, 6-1, 6-4, victory over their countrymen, Harry Hopman and Jack Crowfard.

Part of the headache came from the fact the losers in this first all-foreign final in the 58-year history of the tournament already had defeated the top-seeded American pair with the loss of but one set. Even more troublesome, however, was the fact that Quist and Bromwich looked all but unbeatable in the two final sets.

The four-man Yugoslavian Davis cup team, scheduled to meet the Aussies in the interzone final starting here on Thursday, sat in on the performance that sent the American doubles title to Australia for the first since 1919.

Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan kept the American women's cup hopes high by winning the United States women's doubles title from Kay Stammers and England's Mrs. Freda James Hammersley, 7-5, 8-6. Their match, in effect, was a preview of the Wightman cup doubles, as both will carry their country's colors.

Cobb Confident He Can Shatter Land Speed Record

BONNEVILLE, SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 22.—John R. Cobb, who came from England a few years ago seeking long distance automobile records and succumbed to the high speed bug, attempts today to attain a new momentum goal on land and water.

The London fur broker confidently expects his new bullet-shaped aluminum racer to trace, at least 360 miles an hour, which would crack the 357.5 M.P.H. mark set a year ago by still a third Englishman, Capt. George E. T. Eyston.

In a test run last Friday Cobb sped his twin-engined Railton through the measured mile at 352.94 M.P.H. one way and later said he hadn't pushed it the limit.

Breadon Still In Serious Condition

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—Sam Breadon, owner of St. Louis Cardinals baseball club in the National league, remained in serious condition late Monday with a brain concussion suffered in a fall from a runaway horse. Stadium Transformed Into Brilliant Stage

By JACK KELLY
Edmonton Bulletin Sports Editor

LAST night they flicked over a switch and Clarke Stadium got its baptism of floodlights—another mile post in the development of this plant into one of the finest sport fields in Canada.

Several hundred fans were on hand watching the Eskimos run through a stiff practice and when the lights finally burst on a rousing shout went up. The shout was partly to mark the occasion but chiefly a howl of pleasant surprise.

The 80 lights, grouped around the grid on 10 poles towering 62 feet above the ground, turned the field into a brilliant stage. The green turf showed up in a particularly striking way while the players stand out even more clearly than in daylight.

Fear that the light posts in front of the stands would spoil the visibility was wiped out as the fans tried watching the Eskimos from various points. The seats are so far back from the poles that only a very narrow strip is blocked out and you can get around this by moving your head a few inches one way or the other.

FINAL ADJUSTMENTS

City electricians started adjustment work last night, setting individual lights so as to flood the field uniformly and avoid any shadow areas. It will probably take a couple of nights to get everything set just right, but it will be as near perfect as possible by Friday night when the Regina Roughriders open the Western Conference here against the Eskimos.

Guy wires have been practically eliminated by setting the poles deep in the ground and cementing them in.

ESKS GALLOP

With enough players on hand for two full teams last night, Coach Bob Fritz put the Eskimos through a two and a half hour practice that was the most impressive the club has yet staged. The backfield shows real speed and finesse while the front line that Russ Wile is building looks better every night. The club is just about ready to go and a couple more practices will smooth out the odd rough edge that still remains on some of the plays.

Wednesday night the Eskimos will hold a full dress rehearsal in their new uniforms under the floodlights. It will be their final drill before the opening game Thursday evening will be devoted to light limbering up and skull practice.

TICKETS MOVING

Season tickets are still selling at a brisk clip. There are still a number of good singles and groups left but it looks as if they will all be snapped up before Friday night. However there will be plenty of first class seats available for each game since the season tickets are sold on the two central sections of the main stand only.

The ticket committee of the Booster Club ask that purchasers of season tickets call for them at the Booster offices, 207 Agency Building, if at all possible since this will greatly speed up the distribution. Tickets will be mailed or delivered to those unable to call for them.

Thursday evening all members of the park staff, ushers, gatekeepers, etc., are asked to report at the Stadium by 7:30 p.m. for a final dress rehearsal.

Regina Roughies Get Streamlined For Opener Here on Friday Night

REGINA, Aug. 22.—Long the strong-arm machine of prairie football, Regina Roughriders are "streamlining" for the western interprovincial union opener Friday night at Edmonton.

The tip-off is found in the coaching department where Leo Schweinfurt, successful coach of high school teams in South Dakota and Minnesota, and Doug Kerr, mentor of McGill University's 1938 eastern intercollegiate champions, are assisting head coach Dean Griffing.

Since Griffing came to Regina from Kansas State College in 1936, Riders have been defensive giants.

Griffing officials felt big Dean was not getting the best out of good backfield material. Offensively Riders were about as dangerous as a blind mule. They scored only with an occasional kick.

Schweinfurt was brought in to coach the backfield, attempt to diversify the attack and to act as bench coach while Griffing attends to his playing chores at quarterback. Then Kerr agreed to spend two weeks with Riders in an effort to increase the lateral pass and hipper-dipper as uncorked down east.

OPEN ATTACK

Obviously Riders hope to develop a crowd-pleasing attack and they'll open up considerably. Nevertheless the plungers probably will be the "pay-off" men. Troy Scholl, a newcomer from Tulsa, Okla., is spoken of as a line-smasher as devastating as Leo Danaher, sensational Kansan who is with Riders for a second year.

The backfield has lost two 1938 members, Jim Farmery, who has returned to his Cincinnati home, and Bill Brokovski. But Scholl and Mickey MacDonald, Moose Jaw, Sask., boy who starred with University of Toronto the past two years are replacements de luxe. MacDonald seems to have recovered completely from last season's broken leg.

KANSAS CRACKERS

Howard (Highpockets) Cleveland and Jim Lander, both former Kansas State stars, complete the regular backfield. Cleveland will be safety and running back and Lander will do the blocking, throw passes, punt and act as general handyman.

For relief there is the veteran Bert Nelson, sure-toed placement kicker, and two clever youngsters who moved up from junior ranks last year, Lindsay Holt and Harry

DRUMHELLER EVENS SOUTH BALL PLAYOFF

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

DRUMHELLER, Aug. 22. — After taking a two-game trimming a week ago at Medicine Hat, Drumheller Miners nobly redeemed themselves Sunday by squaring the southern Alberta semi-final senior playoffs, taking the third game 8-1 and the fourth 10-5 to force the series into a fifth game.

A record crowd saw Danny Hackler and Johnny Mathers pitch sizzling ball, Mathers relieving Hackler in the fifth of the first encounter to twirl stellar ball for eleven innings, being relieved in the seventh of the second game by Moineaux.

West Indies Eleven May Get Test Tie

LONDON, Aug. 22.—There is still a chance the West Indies test cricket team will get an even break in the last of their three-game series with England's international players. Indications pointed that way after Monday's play in the concluding test.

To date England leads with an eight-wicket victory in the first test at Lord's and a stalemate in the second game at Old Trafford, Manchester.

The third game started Saturday at Kennington Oval. England won the toss and elected to bat, piling up 342 runs. The Britishers eclipsed that mark and when stumps were drawn had scored 395 runs with only six wickets down.

CINCINNATI GAINS GAME MARGIN OVER ST. LOUIS

Reds Blank Phils While Cards Beaten

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—The National League leading Cincinnati Reds, smarting under Sunday's double defeat by St. Louis, revamped their lineup and slapped two pitchers for nine hits and a 7-0 baseball victory over the Phillies behind Rookie John Neggelling's airtight pitching Monday.

The victory, coupled with St. Louis' setback at Brooklyn, boosted the Reds' first place margin to 4½ games.

Paced by Willard Hershberger, catching in place of Ernie Lombardi, and Frank McCormick, the league leaders did all of their scoring in two innings. McCormick's single with the bases loaded and Hershberger's single with two on accounted for four runs in the fifth inning and drove Ike Pearson to the showers while Ray Harrell walked in Hershberger and Billy Myers singled to score two more runs in the eighth.

Cubs Club Giants

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Lefty Larry French bested Bill Lohrman in a hurling duel to give Chicago Cubs a 4-3 National League baseball victory over New York Giants in the first game of the Bruins' final eastward swing.

His cause imperiled by four Chicago errors, French scattered seven hits effectively and singled with the bases loaded in the fourth to start a three-run rally.

Lohrman also gave seven hits and drove in a run in the seventh with a single.

Dauntless Dodgers

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Aug. 22.—The blazing St. Louis Cardinals were quenched 7-1 by the dauntless Dodgers, who always can be counted upon for the unexpected.

Working beneath a broiling sun, Luke (hot potato) Hamlin dazzled the St. Louis sluggers with his fast ball until after the Brooklyn scoring was completed and then coasted home. The defeat, third in 22 decisions for the Cards, put them 4½ games back of the National League leading Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers worked out on young Tow Stolz and Lean Lonnie Warneke for 14 safeties, including Dolph Camilli's 20th home run of the season.

The victory enabled the Dodgers to crash first division taking over fourth place as the Giants lost to Chicago.

BEA BARRETT SETS RECORD MEDAL SCORE

Takes Qualifying Round Of United States Women's Meet

DARIEN, Conn., Aug. 22—Beatrice Barrett, brunette from Minneapolis, played 18 holes of brilliant golf over the long and hazardous Wee Burn club course Monday to win the qualifying medal in the 43rd annual United States golf championship with a record-breaking score of 74.

One under women's par and only two over men's par for a course that has been strengthened to the limit, the 22-year-old mid-westerner was two shots better than any other medalist in the tournament's history. Enid Wilson came over from England to lead the field at Exmoor in 1933 with a 76, and that was the best until Miss Barrett walloped her way around yesterday.

EASY QUALIFIER

Of the Canadian contingent, Mrs. H. Douglas McIlwraith of Hamilton, Ont., was an easy qualifier with a card of 83.

Isobel Pepall of Toronto toured the layout in 89, border-line score. She was one of several who will compete in a playoff today for the right to continue in match play.

Among the Canadians who fell in the first day's slaughter was Kaye Farrell of Vancouver, who added a wild 54 to her out-going 46 for an even 100.

Miss Barrett won the western women's open title last year, but generally she has had to play second fiddle to her Minneapolis neighbor, Patty Berg, not defending her championship.

CLOSELY FOLLOWED

Right behind Miss Barrett at 75 came Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Greensboro, N.C., star who had taken the medal outright twice and tied for it once in the three previous championships.

Two strokes behind her at 77 came Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky.; Pam Barton, British champion who won both her own and the United States titles in 1936, made a handsome back-to-recovery to get a 78 after going out in 42.

BANFF COURSE STYMIES GOOD GOLFING FIELD

Best Shotmaker Is Three Over Par; Annual Golf Week Opens

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

BANFF, Aug. 22. — Banff's long fairways dismayed a notable array of golfers from all parts of the continent and abroad as Banff's 10th annual golf week got under way here Monday with qualifying rounds of 18 holes in the featured Prince of Wales event for men and Brewster event for women.

Willie H. Ripley, of Chicago and Calgary, was out in 40 and back in 34 for 74, three over par, which was good enough for medal honors, and Mrs. N. R. Deslbriay, Winnipeg, carded 91 as Brewster event medalist.

HAD NO ALIBIS

The big field of 88 men and 24 women faced Starter Bill Thompson under brilliant sunshine, and though the greens were as fast as usual, players had few alibis.

Ernie Ketcham, Seattle, was two strokes behind Ripley and George Heath, Canmore, Alta., was in third place with 79.

Other qualifiers were Ralph Whaley, Seattle, 81; E. Brek, Tulsa, Okla., 82; Alvin Holmes, Palo Alto, Calif., 83; Tom Pain, Jr., Calgary; Wiemar, Regina; Don Crosby, Banff, A. N. PLAYED SMOOTHLY

Youthful Barbara Burns of Seattle, was but two strokes behind the medalist, Mrs. N. R. Deslbriay, in the qualifying round of the Brewster event at 93, and Miss Nora Cox, Edmonton, was third with 98.

Scores of entrants qualifying were: Mrs. R. C. Field, Victoria, B.C., 96; Miss Ethel Knight, Banff, 98; Mrs. W. H. Ripley, Calgary; Mrs. H. F. Fahey, Great Falls, Mont., 99; Mrs. A. Slim Odds Offered Tough Little Mittmen Tonight

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The little guy who never loses a fight and the other little guy who never drops a return match, tangle in Yankee Stadium tonight for 15 rounds for the world lightweight championship, which promises to be the cauliflower "natural" of the year.

The first one is Henry Armstrong, champion of the lightweights and the welterweights and abdicated king of the featherweights. The other is Lou Ambers, swing-singing socker from Herkimer, N.Y., who lost the title to the hammerer a year ago in one of the toughest tussels seen around these parts.

Some 30,000 fans probably will contribute to a gross gate of between $120,000 and $150,000 to see the party, which gets under way about 7 p.m., M.S.T.

The tussle figures so close that Armstrong, a 1-3 favorite in their first meeting, is no better than 5 to 7 now.

Some experts, remembering the brittleness of Armstrong's hands in his fight only three months ago with Ernie Roderick in England, and taking note of the fact the game little colored clouter had a hard week taking off eight pounds to make the 135-pound limit, like Ambers slightly to regain the title he won from Tony Canzoneri. This would lead to a third fight between the two, for the welterweight laurels this fall, contracts for which have already been signed with the stipulation Lou must wind up on top for both.

RANGERS COP SOFTBALL WIN IN CUP PLAY

Juniors Score 6-4 Edge Over Francisco Club Intermediates

Eastwood Rangers, winners of the northern Alberta junior softball crown following their unexpected four-game winning rally, continued to upset the dope as they scored a 6-4 triumph against Francisco club, intermediate title winners. It was the first game in a best-of-three series for the Motor Car Supply trophy, emblematic of city and district softball championship.

Second game of this series will be played at Boyle street grounds on Wednesday and the game will start at 6:45 p.m. and the winner of this series will meet the Rosedale Cubs. Pastime league winners, for the championship honors.

Franciscos appeared tired after their stiff games against Lacombe. They were listless out in the field and had little fire when in the batting box.

Franciscos could get but three hits off Frankie Pizzuto while the Rangers collected five hits off Griffith.

Pizzuto and Wozwitka were the big batamen for the winners. Each of them clipped Griffith for home runs and it was these extra base blows which accounted mostly for the juniors' triumph.

Only Larry Hegan, who has retired, and Alec Shellogg have left the line. Replacing them are Carl Krienke from California and Clarence (Toar) Springstan, 230-pound youngster who helped Regina Dales win the unofficial dominion junior title last autumn.

Griffing, greatest snapback the west has known, will be at his regular position with Krienke and Springstein at inside. Middling probably will be Bob Walker, the former South Dakotan who has been outstanding for years with the Riders, and Dick Bell, a husky "Mountie" who has been groomed for a couple of years here.

Main reserves will be the veterans Johnny Garuik and Jack Thompson and two rookies, Red Edmundson and Jack Martin.

"It's the best-balanced team we've had," Griffing says. "Our only worry is injuries to key men but that is true of all clubs in the gruelling schedule. We'll be all right."

6,000 Fans Watch New Bronks

CALGARY, Aug. 22—Six thousand persons roared their approval of the 1939 Calgary Bronks of the Western Interprovincial Football Union last night in the greatest sports preview this city has ever witnessed.

Twenty-four red raiders, in their brilliant crimson uniforms, and other hopeful Bronks, were introduced to the football-conscious Calgarians during Calgary Booster Club's "open house" affair, five nights prior to the season's league opener here against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The preview also gave the customers a view of just how football will be played under the new floodlights at Mewata Stadium. Coach Dick Haughton sent his men through a 15-minute brisk workout that drew applause from all sections.

Alderman James Mahaffey extended the official welcome and "best of luck" wishes from civic authorities. The Calgary native boys' band and a fireworks display entertained the crowd between the main event, which saw Head Coach Dick Haughan introduced each player.

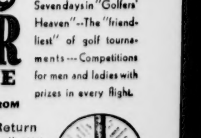

$5,000 Reward For Brutal Slayers Of Aged Pair Made

TORONTO, Aug. 22—Attorney-General Gordon Conant has announced the Ontario government's offer of a $5,000 reward for information resulting in the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the murder of John Milroy and his sister, Annie, in their farm home near Galt, Saturday.

"This was a most dastardly crime, jeopardizing every farm home and, in fact, every home in the province of Ontario," he said.

"I thought it would be nice to go for a trip," said a woman skipper who spent three years sailing 30,000 miles. Just a little run around the seven seas, as it were.

Marketing Act Is Explained

Alberta Funeral Directors' and Embalmers' Association, Inc. held a business breakfast at the Macdonald hotel on Tuesday, the second day of their 11th annual convention. Special speaker at the breakfast was W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry, of the provincial government, who presented the association with another cheque to further their work and instruction, and spoke on the tourist traffic of Alberta, and the Marketing Act.

"It is hoped," he said, "that the people of the province will become aware of the act, and the benefits to be derived from it."

Banquet and program of entertainment are to be held Tuesday evening, when the guest speaker will be Rev. McElroy Thompson. A dance will follow the banquet, being held at the Macdonald hotel.

leaders, ones who will give up their spare time to help the boys.

Rev. Percy Everett arrived in Edmonton shortly before noon today in a Mackenzie Air Service plane piloted by Leigh Brintnell. He will be guest of honor at a banquet at the Macdonald hotel at 6:30 p.m.

Late Tuesday afternoon he will be presented with a gold "Buffalo" of the Cub packs in the city at the Memorial hall.

Sir Percy is joint managing director of the C. Arthur Pearson, Limited, publishing firm and for many years was editor-in-chief of the company. He is one of the original members of the staff gathered by Lord Baden-Powell for the historic experimental Scout camp on Brownsea Island in 1907.

Millet Scout Is Feted By Friends

MILLET, Aug. 22—On Friday evening 70 persons, including several Boy Scouts and Rovers, gathered in the I.O.O.F. hall, to honor Adrien Kent, who is leaving this week for Montreal, to continue his studies at McGill University having been the recipient from that University of a scholarship in chemistry.

Adrian received his schooling at the Millet school, where he took all grades up to 11, taking his grade 12 at Strathcona High. He has just completed four years at the University of Alberta, graduating this spring with honors.

The evening was spent with community singing led by Rev. Morse Johnson, games and competitions furnished by Mrs. D. Stuart, and dancing.

V. M. Storer, leader of the Miller Rover Troop, presented, on behalf of his many friends, Adrian with a solid leather Gladstone bag. Friends from Edmonton and Wetaskiwin were present.

WINGS NORTH

On Wednesday Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia will leave Vancouver in a Canadian Airways twin-motored plane for a 3,200-mile tour of the north. He will fly to Fort St. John, down the Peace River to the Mackenzie basin and down the Mackenzie river to the Arctic. It isn't so long since the good Mr. Pattullo explained to a startled Canada what a good thing it would be if B.C. were to annex the Yukon and part of the North-West Territories, Alberta's Mr. Aberhart followed soon after with the announcement that Alberta would be glad to take title to a goodly portion of the north-eastern north. While Saskatchewan has been casting sheeps' eyes at the same country for long enough.

So far the only ones to get anywhere are the ones who said the least—the Saskatchewan politicians. They have succeeded in getting a liquor store established at Yellowknife—much to the disgust of the residents of the North-West Territories who found it much cheaper and more convenient to buy their tonics, snake-bite remedies and cold cures from the liquor stores in Edmonton or from district bootleggers than it is under the present set-up.

* * *

As one northerner said recently—expressing an opinion held by many—"We don't get excited up here when we hear that some government is going to do something for us. We have learned by bitter experience that regardless of what they are talking about it just means that they have thought up another way of helping us to give them a little more money than we have been. All we want is to be left alone."

North Sawle, Canadian Airways, arrived from Yellowknife Monday evening with six passengers including James Lang, of Thompson-Lundmark Mines, and Bob Dickson of Imperial Oil. Scotty Muir was north Tuesday with Gilbert Labine for Port Radium, C. Scanlon for Thompson Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Ryan for Fort Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. D. Carpenter of Vancouver for McMurray.

Archie Vanhee, of Mackenzie Air Service, arrived in from Aklavik Monday night. Passengers included Mrs. Ian Innes-Taylor who has been visiting friends at Fort Simpson. Miss Turner, of Calgary, who has also been visiting at Fort Simpson and Dr. Hadwell, of Aklavik. Al Brown arrived in from Yellowknife with four passengers including Otto Thibert.

smiling long enough to be interviewed as he waited for the bus to pull out. "Sure, I'm going to have a good time. And I'm going to see just as much as I can," Alberti says.

He is most interested in seeing the Pan-American Airways display at the fair and in inspecting the huge flying boats the company uses on its Trans-Pacific services. At each stop he will be met by members of the Lions' club, who will see that he sees all that that district has to offer in the way of interest and excitement.

"I'll be seeing you in 15 days," Albert said, as the bus pulled out. He will keep a diary of my trip so I can tell you all about it when I get back."

At the bus to see Albert off were officials of the Lions' club, the B.A. Oil company, and Radio Station CFRN.

BEARS INVADE SETTLEMENTS; CAUSE SCARES

run from a bear, if you do. it becomes excited, too, and is apt to attack you.

Somehow that frightened traveller kept on walking, with the bear trotting at his heels, sniffing at the can. The traveller was too scared to even drop the gasoline can. That two miles was the longest he ever travelled. it seemed hours before he glimpsed the farmer's gate. The bear left him there, and vanished into the bush.

The traveller got his gasoline, but absolutely refused to walk back to his car, lest Bruin be lying in wait for him. The farmer's car was away, and all his horses out in the pasture. Finally an Indian on horseback happened along, and the traveller gave him a dollar to let him mount behind him, and ride to his car.

NEVER AGAIN!

He vows he won't be caught without gasoline in the bear country again. Even another story where the joke is on the bear does not cheer him.

It seems that this bear got tangled up with a skunk! Citizens who know something of bears are amazed, for they declare that even a senile bear knows better than to get too close to a skunk. Be that as it may, this bear did—and now he walks alone!

Men clearing land north of town have seen him, and they, too, give him a wide berth. One bush worker watched the lonesome animal go over to half a dozen other bears at the camp garbage pile. The others sniffed, and beat a hasty retreat into the woods, making sounds that likely in bear language told their unfortunate brother that he must live alone until nature disinfected him.

Mrs. Chris Rodika, 10 miles west, went down to the spring the other morning and found a mother bear and two cubs drinking. She retreated. So did the bears.

AT KIDDIES' PLAYGROUND

Bears have been seen on the river bank, half a mile from town, and parents had to stop their children playing there. Several housewives have seen them at their garbage cans and have taken pictures.

Mrs. Lorne Schink, six miles west across the river, was followed by a black bear the other evening when walking home from Ferriet post office. Like the traveller, she was enough not to run. And like him, she isn't going to be caught on foot in the bear country again.

Farmers are alarmed at the increase in the bear population, for they have lost many small calves and young lambs this spring and summer. They're oiling up the old shotgun, buying shells, and going after Mr. Bruin. Hoping to drive him back to the mountains, where they claim a bear should live.

Bears may be a tourist attraction in the mountains, but they're a plague in the farming country. As far as we're concerned, the tourists may have them and welcome.

Only a Few Days Longer

Only a few days longer before EATON'S move to the fine new building now almost ready. Only a few more days of all the excitement that attends the final business days in the old store. There will be plenty of sales after we move to our new home; but the present particular series of splendid clearances certainly won't be repeated—they are part of our preparations for moving.

It's worthwhile to shop in the old store on every one of the few days during which it remains open. There's always some new saving offered—new clearances of odd lots and small stocks are continually cropping up under "Not-Advertised" tickets.

Watch tomorrow's papers closely for the grand three-day sale that climaxes the history of the old store!

Smart Flattery!

It goes without saying that a smart woman chooses the most becoming Fall frock she can find—the hat that makes her look her best! Soon she will have a new possibility of emphasizing individual charm. The Beauty Salon in EATON'S new Edmonton Store will have on its staff for the opening, Mr. J. W. Young, hair stylist, whose skill has won him renown in Eastern Cities. He will cut, shampoo and fingerwave your hair—or give you a permanent wave—in a style chosen or adapted just for you. Small wonder that women are eagerly awaiting the opening of the New Edmonton Store!
